EAST LIVERPOOL, O., TUESDAY, MARCH 5, 1901.

TWO CENTS

MANY THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS LOST BY MANUFACTURERS.

A Great Deal of Inconvenience and Some Suffering Among the Private Consumers—The Pressure Lasted Until Early This Morning, Although the Break Occurred Between 10 and 11 O'clock Last Night—Repairs Being Made This Afternoon.

A bad break occurred in the lines of the Ohio Valley Gas company near Dunford, Pa., between 10 and 11 o'clock last night. As a result a loss to the manufacturers of this city which will reach many thousands of dollars, has been sustained. Private consumers also suffered much inconvenience and annoyance. It was an unusually cold morning for this time of the year, and many families depending wholly upon gas for fuel were compelled to do without fire in kitchens or in any part of the house.

The break occurred about 30 miles from this city, midway between East Liverpool and the field. There is a portion of the line where the break occurred, extending over about a mile that has been in the ground for 16 years. Had the accident occurred at any other point in the more than 60 miles of pipe line the company could have piped around and the supply would have been resumed with but a brief delay.

As soon as the break was discovered at about 10:30 the employees of the company at once started out along the line to locate the spot. They succeeded in accomplishing this at about 3:30 this morning, and no time was lost in starting to dig up the line. The crew from Middletown, Pa., was the first to reach the break. By the time the men who were detailed to repair the break reached the spot the diggers had their part of the work completed, and nothing remained to be done but replace the broken parts. This the company expected to do some time during the afternoon.

A canvass was made among the different potteries, and the loss will be enormous. The French China company is possibly the least affected of any plant in town, they having their own gas. Almost all the workmen are at their benches. The C. C. Thompson plant is also working full. This pottery uses coal throughout.

The Sevres China company are perhaps the largest losers, as a glost kiln was destroyed. The kiln would have been off this morning and the loss will be very heavy. The damage to the ware and the loss of the day's work at this plant will reach over $5,000.

The Knowles, Taylor & Knowles pottery has closed every department, and while it is impossible to tell as yet whether there will be any loss in the kiln department, the inconvenience will cost the concern almost $1,000.

Inquiry was made at the National, Laughlin No. 1 and 2, East End, Globe, Harker, Murphy, D. E. McNicol, East Liverpool, both the Southside plants and the Dresden potteries, eliciting the information that with the exception of a few scattered workmen in each nothing is being done today.

A great deal of inconvenience and some suffering was caused in the schools of the city by reason of the shortage. Two rooms at the Third street building, two at the Grant street and several departments of the Sixth street building were dismissed this morning.

A great many of the private consumers have had coal placed in their homes.

SEVERELY BURNED BY EXPLODING GAS

Frank Bagley and William Stillwell Had a Very Narrow Escape.

THEY WERE HURLED TEN FEET

Used a Match to Locate a Leak And Suffer in Consequence—Fire Department Was Called—The Blaze Caused $1,000 Damage.

Frank Bagley and William Stillwell were badly burned about the face by a gas explosion at the home of Mr. Bagley on Second street this morning about 8:30 o'clock.

The gas from the Ohio Valley line was off, and as they also have the Bridgewater line in the house, they went to the basement for the purpose of turning the gas into the meter. Unknown to them the pipe had become disconnected, and as they could smell gas Mr. Bagley struck a match to locate the leak. The first match went out and he struck another, when there was a loud report and both gentlemen thrown a distance of 10 feet.

The gas, becoming ignited, was rapidly gaining headway when Mr. Bagley recovered the wrench and, reaching through the flames, turned it off. The fire was extinguished before the arrival of the fire department, which had been called. The explosion shook the whole house and almost blew out the side of the building, tearing it loose from the first to the top of the second story.

Mr. Bagley was badly burned on both hands and face, while Stillwell was only burned about the face. Dr. Norris, who was summoned immediately, dressed the injured men and they are resting as easy as could be expected this afternoon.

The damage done to the building will probably reach $1,000.

MADE NIGHT HIDEOUS.

COLORED REVELERS INDULGED IN SHOUTS AND SHOOTING.

A Bunch of Five Landed in the City Bastille, Four of Whom Still Remain.

The people residing in the vicinity of the Williams saw mill were startled last night about 11 o'clock by a series of blood curdling yells that would have done credit to a full blooded Sioux. These were accompanied by a few shots from a revolver.

The noise was caused by a party of five colored people who were bent on having a rousing time, and had looked carefully after the booze part of the program.

The police were notified and made a swift advance upon the crowd, capturing the whole bunch. Jessie Alexander was the only female in the crowd, and she was accompanied by Lucky Baldwin, Dave Brown, Paul Lacey and George Southall. This morning Mayor Davidson fined each $5 60. IN THE COURTS.

MINOR CASES AND PROBATE MATTERS BEING DISPOSED OF.

Several Cases Settled or Continued. Verdict for Plaintiff in McCord-Potts Case.

Lisbon, March 5.—(Special.)—Common pleas court convened yesterday afternoon. The first case called was that of George McCord against W. S. Potts as administrator of the late Melissa McCord, of Wayne township, who died in January, three years ago. The defendant sold three tracts of land in Wayne township, containing 74 acres by order of the probate court. Judge Boone found that the plaintiff was entitled to a dower interest of $475.25, but only a part of this was paid by the administrator until the upper court ruled on McCord's liability on a note for $300 given to Jane Patterson. The verdict was in favor of the plaintiff.

John E. Evans and wife, whose home in this city was damaged by fire last September, have never been able to satisfactorily adjust their claim on the German Insurance company, of Freeport, Ill. Yesterday they filed an action in court, asking judgment for $182. The company has recognized its liability in the sum of $75 and agreed to pay that amount.

The assignment for the week in court is being rapidly disposed of by settlement and continuance.

McKay and W. R. Ryan. Judge Firestone, as executor of the estate of Abbie A. Nace, of Lisbon, is made a defendant in the case, as he holds a legacy from the estate to Mrs. Noble.

Richard J. Hartley was appointed administrator of the estate of the late Ella V. Hartley, of Knox township, with $1,000 bond.

Claimed the Young Man Stole His Watch And Overcoat—Boughton Had a Cocked Revolver in His Pocket When Searched By Police.

Joseph W. Boughton was arrested in Wheeling last night on complaint made by J. R. Marsh, of this city. Marsh lost an overcoat and gold watch and claimed to have good reason for thinking Boughton was the thief.

Boughton went to Wheeling Saturday and enlisted at the recruiting station. It is understood that he was not sworn in, but borrowed a soldier's uniform and had been wearing it.

Officers Miller and Selvey found him in the White Front saloon last night and placed him under arrest. He was taken before Justice Fitzpatrick and committed to jail. It is learned that when the officers approached him at the saloon he quickly put both hands in his coat pockets and refused to comply with the policemen's request to take them out. Officer Selvey grasped Boughton's hands and, jerking them from his pockets, searched and found a cocked revolver. The police state that on being questioned why he carried a cocked revolver he replied: "Why, in what other way do you think I would carry a revolver?" Mr. Marsh from whom the property was stolen, accompanied by Officer Gill, of this city, went there yesterday to investigate the case.

Boughton is 21 years of age, and is a warehouseman formerly employed at the Goodwin pottery, while Marsh is a bookkeeper employed by A. Trotter & Son. Boughton belongs to a good family and has never been in trouble before. Marsh and he boarded at Mrs. Welsh's place in Drury lane, and it is presumed that is how the theft was made easy.

Officer Gill and Mr. Marsh arrived in this city at noon, having recovered the overcoat and watch. Boughton is held in Wheeling on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

EAST END.

HAND BADLY HURT.

Roy Manypenny Painfully Injured By Machinery While at Work.

Roy Manypenny, a mold runner at the National pottery, met with a very painful injury yesterday by accidentally placing his hand between the figger shaft and the disc under the bench. When his hand was placed between the disc and the shaft, the set screw on the shaft tore the flesh to the bone the entire length of his palm.

The boy hastened to Dr. Calhoun's office, where the wound was dressed and partly stitched, but the hand was so badly torn that it was impossible to draw the flesh together. It will be several weeks before the injured member can be used again.

A prominent pottery owner suggests that sliding doors should be placed on the front of the bench between the machinery and the employe, which would afford the employe the protection required by law and also protect the machinery from dust, which is a source of constant injury.

East End Notes.

Rev. N. W. Crowe left on the 4 o'clock train for El Paso.

Samuel Dixon has let the contract for the erection of a seven-room residence on St. George street.

Lewis Brightwell and Miss Ella Ormes were married by Justice McLane at 5 o'clock yesterday evening. The happy pair left for a honeymoon in the west.

Miss Minnie Dobbs, of Helena, and William Procter, of the city proper were united in marriage by the probate judge at Beaver yesterday. The happy couple will reside in this city.

RAN OVER A CHILD.

Hanoverton Youths Drove Fast And Were Arrested for Assault With Intent to Kill.

Lisbon, March 5.—(Special.)—Two Hanoverton young men, who only figured on being arraigned for fast driving, are now under arrest, charged with assaulting Mary McDonald, 10 years old, with intent to kill. Sheriff Noragon made the charge. They gave the names of W. F. and George Smith which are evidently fictitious, though their real names are not known here. The sheriff will diligently prosecute.

The two youths drove through this town yesterday afternoon at rapid speed. School had just been dismissed and the child, who was crossing the street, was knocked down by the horse and dragged 10 feet. Her clothing was torn by the horse's hoofs, and the wheels of the buggy passed over the knee.

The drunken parties drove on rapidly, and Deputy Sheriff Noragon, who saw the child hurt, secured a grocery delivery wagon and started in pursuit, capturing them in the west end of town. In the mayor's court they pleaded not guilty and are now in jail. They will have a hearing this afternoon.

THREE LITTLE WAIFS

Deserted By Their Father, They Will Henceforth Be Cared for at the Children's Home.

The children of Mrs. Sarah Bailey, who resides near the Klondike pottery, were this morning taken to the Fairmount Children's home by Mrs. Henderson.

The children are 11, 9 and 7 years old and the father, who, it was reported, ran away in company with his stepdaughter several months ago, has not yet been heard of. The mother is employed at the Klondike pottery and was unable to provide for them.

BUBKEYE BRIEFS.

A Canton-Steubenville Line.

Canton, March 5.—That the parties who are projecting the trolley line from Canton south through Minerva, Carrollton, Harlem Springs and other towns to Steubenville or Wheeling or some other point on the Ohio river are in earnest is evidenced by the fact that a right of way is being secured south of this city. It is known that the privilege of building through a number of farms adjacent to the city has been secured, the rights of way having already been signed up. This is but a part of the stupendous plan to connect the lake with the Ohio valley.

A Portia from Salem.

Salem, March 5.—Mrs. Maud Fogg, nee Maud Pickett, of this city, wife of Dr. Charles L. Fogg, of Cleveland has sued her husband for divorce and appeared in court to ask for temporary alimony. She argued her own case and the court granted her $7.50 a week alimony, though Fogg wanted to pay only $5.

In the Neighborhood.

Samuel Small, of Lisbon, now in his 87th year, was a member of the first band organized in that town, in 1832.

John Griffith, employed by the Lisbon Coal company, got his face badly hurt while blasting.

BOATS ON THE MOVE.

Ice Still Running in the Ohio River, But Navigation Has Been Resumed.

The ice in the river today was very heavy, but rivermen state that it will run out by tomorrow morning and that the coal boats will be sent out at once.

The Keystone State passed down last night for Cincinnati and the Queen City went up today. The marks at the wharf registered 8 feet and rising slowly.

Treasures of the White House.

There are doubtless in every large city in the country larger and more valuable collections of bric-a-brac and art furniture than that to be found in the private apartments of the executive mansion, but it is a question whether there is in the length and breadth of the land any other half so interesting. Rarity is, of course, a universal characteristic of the artistic gems scattered through the home of the presidents, but better than that is the fact that almost every piece is fraught with memories and associations that make it a prized possession. Of the whole number probably half are the gifts of kings and rulers, tokens of appreciation from friendly nations, and the remainder, having been fashioned especially for the White House, have no duplicates anywhere else in the world.—Woman's Home Companion.

Three at the M. P. Church.

Impressive and interesting revival services at the M. P. church brought out a large congregation last evening. Prof. Evans, of Pittsburg, the blind singer, rendered some most beautiful selections, frequently moving his hearers to tears. Especially impressive was his rendering of "The Old Country Home." Three persons came forward after a sermon by the pastor. Prof. Evans will sing again tonight.

Y. M. C. A. Directors' Meeting.

The directors of the Young Men's Christian Association did not meet last night as had been arranged, but will get together tonight. State Secretary H. A. Landis, of Cleveland, is in the city today, and it is likely something definite will be known as to what the future has in store for the local association at the meeting tonight.

Judgment for Rev. T. I. McRae.

In the court of Justice McCarron this morning judgment was rendered for plaintiff in the case of Rev. T. I. McRae, of Steubenville, versus John Rinehart for $54, claimed due on a promissory note. Judgment was rendered for the full amount, together with interest from October last.

GAS STOCKS FIGURED.

Movements in Them Were Conspicuous on the Stock Exchange on Monday.

New York, March 5.—Business was conducted on the Stock Exchange on Monday with great acorom and sobriety of demeanor, in strong contrast to the wild and feverish activity that prevailed up to a short time ago. The most conspicuous movements of the day were the stocks of the municipal gas companies, especially those of the Greater New York Consolidated Gas was carried up to 20 1/2, with an extreme advance of 5 1/2, while Brooklyn Union Gas rose no less than 11 1/2. Dealings in both stocks were unusually large. The strength was not explained by the new news, but gave rise to rumors of consolidation. People's Gas advanced a point and Lacade Gas 2 1/2, influenced by that indeclinable sympathy which effects stocks of the same class in a speculative movement. The local traction stocks were also drawn into the movement after some heaviness in Brooklyn Transit and they were rallied from 1 1/2 to 3 points. A number of other high priced industrial specialties showed marked strength, General Electric rising 4, with a reaction of 2, and National Salt preferred gaining 4. There was a very heavy absorption of Amalgamated Copper all day, all offerings being taken with confidence up to par, an extreme rise of 4 1/2. The smelting stocks rallied sharply from an opening break on covering by shorts upon the news of a legal point lost by the opposition to the proposed merger. The tide water soft coal carriers continued in demand on account of the large business done in anticipation of a coming increase in freight rates. There were points of strength all through the railroad list on the almost universal reports of increase in earnings, large traffic and good rates. The grangers, Pacifics and south-westerns, all enjoyed good advances, Rock Island and Union Pacific leading. A number of minor railroads were also in good demand. The steel stocks were higher, but they were without any sensational feature. The publication of the official circular giving the details of the financial arrangement proposed for putting through the consolidation was disregarded as the preliminary gossip had pretty accurately forecasted them.

The continued ease of the money market precludes any acute apprehension on that score, although it is not expected that credit facilities in New York will be expanded in the next few weeks.

United States new 4s coupon declined 1/4 per cent on the last call.

Not as a Rule.

He had been trying all evening to make a good impression. He had told all his humorous stories and had given one impassioned speech from "Cyrano," but was still unconscious. Thick skinned, he failed to perceive all her efforts to get rid of him. Finally there was a deep silence. Fidgeting, he grew nervous and cast about for something to say.

"Do you wear that sort of collar as a rule?" he stammered foolishly.

"No," the haughty maid replied frigidly; "as a collar."

Then he fled.—New York Times.

A Case Lincoln Would Not Take.

All clients knew that, with "Old Abe" as their lawyer, they would win their case—if it was fair; if not, that it was a waste of time to take it to him. After listening some time one day to a would be client's statement, with his eyes on the ceiling, he swung suddenly round in his chair and exclaimed:

"Well, you have a pretty good case in technical law, but a pretty bad one in equity and justice. You'll have to get some other fellow to win this case for you. I couldn't do it. All the time, while standing talking to that jury, I'd be thinking, 'Lincoln, you're a liar,' and I believe I should forget myself and say it out loud."—Success.

Neuralgia.

The Prayer of a Nerve for More Blood.

Neuralgia may attack any part of the body but most frequently occurs where the nerves are most abundant.

In the face.
Sometimes the heart nerves seem to twist
Twining rheumatic pains of the extremities

Sharp and intense at times
In the intervals dull and heavy.
Neuralgia is the result of impoverished blood caused by impairment of the nerves—a lack of nerve force

It is a disease of the nerve centers, and the pains accompanying it are a prayer for better nourishment. They are the danger signals which warn you against a total collapse of the nervous system.

Liniments and all external applications can only give temporary relief. Permanent cure cannot possibly come until the nerve centers are thoroughly revitalized and reinvigorated by Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. The beneficial effects of this great nerve restorative are felt thrilling through the nerve fibres as week by week and month by month the nerve force of the body is restored. Women afflicted with diseases peculiar to their sex are frequently great sufferers from neuralgia. Dr. Chase's Nerve Pills positively cures both these disorders by filling the nervous system with new vigor and life. 50 cents a box at all dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. EAST END.

HAND BADLY HURT.

Roy Manypenny, a mold runner at the National pottery, met with a very painful injury yesterday by accidentally placing his hand between the jigger shaft and the disc under the bench. When his hand was placed between the disc and the shaft, the set screw on the shaft tore the flesh to the bone the entire length of his palm.

The boy hastened to Dr. Calhoun's office, where the wound was dressed and partly stitched, but the hand was so badly torn that it was impossible to draw the flesh together. It will be several weeks before the injured member can be used again.

A prominent pottery owner suggests that sliding doors should be placed on the front of the bench between the machinery and the employee, which would afford the employee the protection required by law and also protect the machinery from dust, which is a source of constant injury.

RAN OVER A CHILD.

Lisbon, March 5.—(Special.)—Two Hanoverton young men, who only figured on being arraigned for fast driving, are now under arrest, charged with assaulting Mary McDonald, 10 years old, with intent to kill. Sheriff Noragon made the charge. They gave the names of W. F. and George Smith which are evidently fictitious, though their real names are not known here. The sheriff will diligently prosecute.

The two youths drove through this town yesterday afternoon at rapid speed. School had just been dismissed and the child, who was crossing the street, was knocked down by the horse and dragged 10 feet. Her clothing was torn by the horse's hoofs, and the wheels of the buggy passed over the knee.

The drunken parties drove on rapidly, and Deputy Sheriff Noragon, who saw the child hurt, secured a grocery delivery wagon and started in pursuit, capturing them in the west end of town. In the mayor's court they pleaded not guilty and are now in jail. They will have a hearing this afternoon.

The children of Mrs. Sarah Bailey, who resides near the Klondike pottery, were this morning taken to the Fairmount Children's home by Mrs. Henderson.

BUBKEYE BRIEFS.

A Canton-Stebenville Line.

Canton, March 5.—That the parties who are projecting the trolley line from Canton south through Minerva, Carrollton, Harlem Springs and other towns to Stebenville or Wheeling or some other point on the Ohio river are in earnest is evidenced by the fact that a right of way is being secured south of this city. It is known that the privilege of building through a number of farms adjacent to the city has been secured, the rights of way having already been signed up. This is but a part of the stupendous plan to connect the lake with the Ohio valley.

A Portia from Salem.

Salem, March 5.—Mrs. Maud Fogg, nee Maud Pickett, of this city, wife of Dr. Charles L. Fogg, of Cleveland has sued her husband for divorce and appeared in court to ask for temporary alimony. She argued her own case and the court granted her $7.50 a week alimony, though Fogg wanted to pay only $5.

Treasures of the White House.

There are doubtless in every large city in the country larger and more valuable collections of bric-a-brac and art furniture than that to be found in the private apartments of the executive mansion, but it is a question whether there is in the length and breadth of the land any other half so interesting. Rarity is, of course, a universal characteristic of the artistic gems scattered through the home of the presidents, but better than that is the fact that almost every piece is fraught with memories and associations that make it a prized possession. Of the whole number probably half are the gifts of kings and rulers, tokens of appreciation from friendly nations, and the remainder, having been fashioned especially for the White House, have no duplicates anywhere else in the world.—Woman's Home Companion.

Three at the M. P. Church.

Impressive and interesting revival services at the M. P. church brought out a large congregation last evening. Prof. Evans, of Pittsburg, the blind singer, rendered some most beautiful selections, frequently moving his hearers to tears. Especially impressive was his rendering of "The Old Country Home." Three persons came forward after a sermon by the pastor. Prof. Evans will sing again tonight.

Y. M. C. A. Directors' Meeting.

The directors of the Young Men's Christian Association did not meet last night as had been arranged, but will get together tonight. State Secretary H. A. LENTEN FOOD.

PLENTY OF FISH AND EGGS IN THE LOCAL MARKET.

Some Kinds of Fish Are Scarce And Higher—No White Fish at Present.

Some speculation is being indulged in among those of the East Liverpool people who observe Lent as to what will occur in the fish and egg market between now and Easter.

The increased demand for the commodities has a great deal to do with the prices, but the conditions of the weather in the lake regions play no small part in the condition of the market, so far as it concerns the regulation of prices.

The supply of fresh water fish does not differ materially from that which generally prevails at this season of the year, although cat, black bass, herring and white fish are unusually scarce. The price of herring, the most plentiful and the more common fish, is higher, according to the statement of a local dealer, being a cent and a half more than ever before. This is due in a great measure to the scarcity of this tribe, although the fact that A. Booth & Co. have the market cornered at the present time has its influence also.

It is almost impossible to get white fish for the market here, and it will at least be a month before the demand can be supplied.

One of the local dealers was approached yesterday on the subject, and stated that there was no reason for the belief that there would be any scarcity worth mentioning, as he, together with all leading dealers, had contracts with the various firms by the year, and all could get what they wanted of the kinds that were available during the lenten season.

There is no scarcity of eggs at this time, and the prospects are for a goodly supply as Easter approaches. The price is not as high as usual at this time of the year, merchants being able to buy the hen fruit at 19 cents a dozen.

BEYOND DOUBT

These Facts Must Convince Every East Liverpool Reader.

That which follows is the experience of a resident of East Liverpool. Incredulity cannot exist about the statement, because it can readily be investigated.

Mr. Henry Bevington, who resides at the corner of Avondale and Bradshaw avenue, says: "During three years I had attacks of dull, steady aching in the back. When stooping or sitting for some time it would change to a quick pang as I arose to an upright position. My back tired out easily when walking or standing long, and I often had headaches, dizziness, and in the morning great depression. I took medicines, many of them, but found Doan's Kidney Pills, sold at the W. & W. pharmacy, to be more suitable for my complaint than anything that I had ever tried."

RIVER BILL KILLED.

Carter, Now an Ex-Senator, Occupied the Floor for Nearly 13 Consecutive Hours.

Washington, March 5.—One of the most notable occurrences in the history of congressional legislation marked the closing hours of the last session of the senate of the Fifty-sixth congress. Senator Carter, of Kentucky, signified his retirement from the senate after six years of brilliant service by taking the river and harbor bill to death. He occupied the floor, constructively, for nearly 13 consecutive hours, although in the aggregate about three hours of that time were devoted to other business.

About 11:40 Sunday night, after the senate conferred on the river and harbor bill and reported a disagreement, Senator Carter began his speech. Apparently in a lacerated vein, he began his attack upon the measure, denouncing it as vicious and pernicious legislation, unwarranted by conditions and unsound in principle.

Mr. Amson submitted a further disagreement on the sundry civil bill, the item in question being the appropriation for the three expositions. From this the senate recessed and then passed the St. Louis exposition bill. Mr. Thurman, who has championed the appropriation for Charleston throughout the session, made a final appeal to the senate to save the Charleston bill, but he realized that the Missouri senators were more powerful than he. By a vote of 38 to 19 the senate recessed from the Charleston appropriation, and the bill was passed.

Mr. Carter resumed his speech, finally announcing that it was his intention not to permit the river and harbor bill to become a law, if his strength should hold out, and saying that at that moment he was in excellent physical condition. With the exception of a brief intermission while a quorum was being secured and a recess of half an hour Mr. Carter spoke practically continuously. He yielded the floor only after the ceremony of the induction of Vice President Roosevelt into office had begun.

In retiring as president pro tem of the senate, Mr. Frye, in response to a resolution of thanks for his courtesy and impartiality, delivered a brief but feeling address to the senate.

At the conclusion of the session of the Fifty-sixth congress Vice President Roosevelt was sworn in and immediately called the senate of the Fifty-seventh congress to order. It was a simple but beautiful and impressive ceremony. The new senators were sworn in in groups of four. At the conclusion of this proceeding the senate attended the inauguration of the president on the east front of the capitol. At 1:45 the senate returned to its chamber and adjourned immediately until today.

PRAISE FOR SPEAKER HENDERSON.

Pleasant Incident at Closing Session of the House.

Washington, March 5.—The house closed its session about 11:45 Monday, amid a demonstration from its members following the delivery of an impressive valedictory by Speaker Henderson. For an hour the body had been in the throes of dissolution, with little business to perform. The galleries were almost empty, for there were too many sights and scenes without the building and too many restrictions on admission to permit an overflowing assemblage. Here and there on the desks of the members were great clusters of flowers, paying farewell tribute to their services.

Shortly before the closing hour Mr. Richardson, of Tennessee, the minority leader, presented resolutions testifying the high regard of the house for the able, impartial and dignified manner in which Speaker Henderson had administered the duties of presiding officer. Coming from the minority, there was added significance in the tribute. The resolutions were unanimously adopted by a rising vote. Then the speaker, in slow and impressive tones, delivered his closing words to the house, thanking the members for their co-operation through a busy and eventful congress. He concluded and announced the sessions of the house for the Fifty-sixth congress adjourned.

BRITISH BANKRUPTS.

PRIVILEGES WHICH ARE ACCORDED BY LAW TO PEERS.

Some English Legal Decisions as to What Constitute the Necessaries of Life—They Widely Differ From Duke to Ordinary Mortal.

Recent bankruptcy cases in London have brought up various legal decisions which have been reached in England on the subject of what are necessities of life for men of various stations and degrees who are not in command of their own incomes.

A duke, for instance, or even a marquis or an earl is entitled by law to one bottle of champagne a day if his trustees hold the money to pay for it. In the case of the former Duke of Manchester the law decided that seven bottles of champagne a week are necessary to a duke whose affairs may be in the hands of trustees and that if he had not the control of his own income he must be allowed to have a carriage with one horse, a riding horse as well, one manservant and a house with a rent of not less than £250 a year; otherwise he must be allowed to have the use of £2,000 a year, while the rest might be allowed to accumulate for the good of the estate till the trustee period expired.

A viscount or a baron is allowed by law to describe as necessities things which smaller fry might struggle along without. But a viscount's income—provided there is anybody to pay it—is fixed at £1,500 a year and a baron's at £1,000. He is, supposing any guardians have a few thousands a year to pay out to him according to discretion, only entitled to claret as a beverage, for his yearly wine allowance only runs to £60, which would not keep him in champagne unless he drank it very seldom. The duke's wine bill may run to £150.

The viscount must have a carriage, but it may be attached for debt, and he cannot force his guardians to give him a horse. Of course, if he has no guardians, nor any income, either, he must do as other people and go without, but these things are considered necessary to peers. A manservant is allowed to a viscount or baron, but the house rent need not exceed £200, nor can it be less than £150.

A doctor is better off than a viscount in one way—his carriage cannot be seized in most cases, nor can the expenses of it be reckoned in his income tax returns. In selling up a doctor for debt he may retain one horse, and two of his carpets are considered as necessities to his business—in the hall and consulting room—and reckoned at £20 apiece. He may have surgical instruments and medical appliances to the value of £1,000, and these cannot be seized.

An ordinary man can retain nothing but his clothes, his hairbrushes and a few stern necessities of that kind. No wine is allowed to a doctor, but if a student in the hands of trustees, he can demand a couple of servants and a house rent of £60 per year.

The son of a well-to-do merchant or tradesman making about £1,000 a year can demand neither wine nor horses nor servants, but the law may allow him a rent of £50 and another £150 or £200 to keep himself on, supposing he is in the hands of guardians, whether under or over age. As to debt, he can be sold up, bar his personal necessities and his clothes, though he is not generally allowed to keep more than six suits of the latter.

If he has more a judge might allow them to be taken with the other chattels, and he can be left without a chair to sit on or a spoon to eat with. Jewelry, if he has any, can be taken; but if he has, say, two pairs of valuable sleeve links he can keep only one of them. In the same way he may keep a dress suit, but if he has two an order may be made to sell up one of them.

A lawyer can have 500 books on legal subjects or in some way pertaining to law, and these have to be left alone by the brokers. There are extreme cases in which everything, even necessities, may be taken, but the lawyer may also demand exemption even in such cases for his wigs, or at least two of them, and two gowns. As a student in the hands of guardians he can make them pay him £80 a year for chambers, and they must pay his examination and other fees.

A clergyman or minister of any kind is worst off of all and can keep very little for himself. He can make his guardians come down with the fees his profession needs, however, and if he lives in the country as a curate and has some trustees and also a guardian he can make them supply him with a gardener.

Why She Wept.

Among the Mainotes, descendants of the Spartans, thieving is considered a very honorable employment. An English traveler, being entertained at the house of one of the mountaineers, took some silver articles from a packing case he had with him to eat his dinner with. At the sight of such costliness an old woman began to cry, the Englishman having asked what affected her so much:

"Alas, my good sir," she replied, "I weep because my son is not here to rob you of those beautiful things!"

No Gentleman.

"Mame," said the girl in the red shirt waist and plaid skirt, "ain't he just a prince?"

"Oh, rats!" replied her lady friend, with dignity. "Any one kin see that he wears a celloid collar, and them trousers is $3 ones."—Philadelphia North American.

ONLY AN OLD SONG.

But It Illustrated the Curiosity of a New York Crowd.

It was only a song, and an old one at that, but it came near causing a block on the Broadway surface line the other day. The singer was as black as the coal in the cart he was driving, but that fact cast no shadow on his exuberant spirits. As he swung his chariot from Broadway into Cortlandt street he raised his voice. Then the trouble began.

When the notes of "Old Black Joe" rang out high and clear above the din of traffic, expressions of blank amazement overspread the faces of the hurrying pedestrians who thronged the sidewalks. Necks were craned in a vain search for the location of some newly patented phonograph. Crowds collected and gazed vacantly upon the air, as if they expected to locate the sound in some office window; teams were drawn up until a long line of trucks extended up Cortlandt street to Broadway, barring access to the street, that their drivers might ascertain the cause of the crowd's curiosity. Suddenly a newsboy cried:

"Ah, rubber! Don'tcher see it's only de nigger a-singin?"

The crowd laughed. The darky, now lustily holding forth on "The Suwannee River," turned sharply into Church street, totally oblivious to the excitement he had caused. The crowd then dispersed, and the long line of wagons began to move once more.

"Well," exclaimed a Jerseyman on his way to the ferry, "New Yorkers call country people curious, and put"—He shrugged his shoulders and passed on.—New York Mail and Express.

The Squeaking Shoe No More.

"Squeaking shoes," said a dealer, "are no more, though of course you haven't noticed it. Stop a minute, though, and think. Isn't it true that for years you haven't come across a squeaking shoe? The thing that caused the trouble was a loose piece of leather in the sole. This, as you walked, worked somewhat like a bellows or an accordion, and great was the sound thereof. All shoes are now sewed—many of them used to be pegged—and sewing does away with any loose pieces of leather in the sole and, therefore, with the squeak as well. I don't believe that if you searched a week you would be able to find a squeaking shoe in Philadelphia."—Philadelphia Press

PLENTY OF FISH AND EGGS IN THE LOCAL MARKET.

Some Kinds of Fish Are Scarce And Higher—No White Fish at Present.

Some speculation is being indulged in among those of the East Liverpool people who observe Lent as to what will occur in the fish and egg market between now and Easter.

The increased demand for the commodities has a great deal to do with the prices, but the conditions of the weather in the lake regions play no small part in the condition of the market, so far as it concerns the regulation of prices.

The supply of fresh water fish does not differ materially from that which generally prevails at this season of the year, although cat, black bass, herring and white fish are unusually scarce. The price of herring, the most plentiful and the more common fish, is higher, according to the statement of a local dealer, being a cent and a half more than ever before. This is due in a great measure to the scarcity of this tribe, although the fact that A. Booth & Co. have the market cornered at the present time has its influence also.

It is almost impossible to get white fish for the market here, and it will at least be a month before the demand can be supplied.

One of the local dealers was approached yesterday on the subject, and stated that there was no reason for the belief that there would be any scarcity worth mentioning, as he, together with all leading dealers, had contracts with the various firms by the year, and all could get what they wanted of the kinds that were available during the lenten season.

There is no scarcity of eggs at this time, and the prospects are for a goodly supply as Easter approaches. The price is not as high as usual at this time of the year, merchants being able to buy the hen fruit at 19 cents a dozen.

BEYOND DOUBT

These Facts Must Convince Every East Liverpool Reader.

That which follows is the experience of a resident of East Liverpool. Incredulity cannot exist about the statement, because it can readily be investigated.

Mr. Henry Bevington, who resides at the corner of Avondale and Bradshaw avenue, says: "During three years I had attacks of dull, steady aching in the back. When stooping or sitting for some time it would change to a quick pang as I arose to an upright position. My back tired out easily when walking or standing long, and I often had headaches, dizziness, and in the morning great depression. I took medicines, many of them, but found Doan's Kidney Pills, sold at the W. & W. pharmacy, to be more suitable for my complaint than anything that I had ever tried."

RIVER BILL KILLED.

Carter, Now an Ex-Senator, Occupied the Floor for Nearly 13 Consecutive Hours.

Washington, March 5.—One of the most notable occurrences in the history of congressional legislation marked the closing hours of the last session of the senate of the Fifty-sixth congress. Senator Carter, of Alabama, signified his retirement from the senate after six years of brilliant service by making the river and harbor bill to govern. He occupied the floor, constructively, for nearly 13 consecutive hours, although in the aggregate about three hours of that time were devoted to other business.

About 11:40 Sunday night, after the senate conference on the river and harbor bill had reported a disagreement, Senator Carter began his speech. Apparently in a racy vein, he began his attack upon the measure, denouncing it as vicious and pernicious legislation, unwarranted by conditions and unsound in principle.

Mr. Amson submitted a further disagreement on the sundry civil bill, the item in question being the appropriation for the three expositions. From this the senate recessed and then passed the St. Louis exposition bill. Mr. Tamm, who has championed the appropriation for Charleston throughout the session, made a final appeal to the senate to save the Charleston item, but he realized that the Missouri senators were more powerful than he. By a vote of 38 to 10 the senate recessed from the Charleston appropriation, and the bill was passed.

Mr. Carter resumed his speech, finally announcing that it was his intention not to permit the river and harbor bill to become a law, if his strength should hold out, and saying that at that moment he was in excellent physical condition. With the exception of a brief intermission while a quorum was being secured and a recess of half an hour Mr. Carter spoke practically continuously. He yielded the floor only after the ceremony of the induction of Vice President Roosevelt into office had begun.

In retiring as president pro tem of the senate, Mr. Frye, in response to a resolution of thanks for his courtesy and impartiality, delivered a brief but feeling address to the senate.

At the conclusion of the session of the Fifty-sixth congress Vice President Roosevelt was sworn in and immediately called the senate of the Fifty-seventh congress to order. It was a simple but beautiful and impressive ceremony. The new senators were sworn in in groups of four. At the conclusion of this proceeding the senate attended the inauguration of the president on the east front of the capitol. At 1:45 the senate returned to its chamber and adjourned immediately until today.

PRAISE FOR SPEAKER HENDERSON.

Pleasant Incident at Closing Session of the House.

Washington, March 5.—The house closed its session about 11:45 Monday, amid a demonstration from its members following the delivery of an impressive valedictory by Speaker Henderson. For an hour the body had been in the throes of dissolution, with little business to perform. The galleries were almost empty, for there were too many sights and scenes without the building and too many restrictions on admission to permit an overflowing assemblage. Here and there on the desks of the members were great clusters of flowers, paying farewell tribute to their services.

Shortly before the closing hour Mr. Richardson, of Tennessee, the minority leader, presented resolutions testifying the high regard of the house for the able, impartial and dignified manner in which Speaker Henderson had administered the duties of presiding officer. Coming from the minority, there was added significance in the tribute. The resolutions were unanimously adopted by a rising vote. Then the speaker, in slow and impressive tones, delivered his closing words to the house, thanking the members for their co-operation through a busy and eventful congress. He concluded and announced the sessions of the house for the Fifty-sixth congress adjourned.

There are extreme cases in which everything, even necessities, may be taken, but the lawyer may also demand exemption even in such cases for his wigs, or at least two of them, and two gowns. As a student in the hands of guardians he can make them pay him £80 a year for chambers, and they must pay his examination and other fees.

A clergyman or minister of any kind is worst off of all and can keep very little for himself. He can make his guardians come down with the fees his profession needs, however, and if he lives in the country as a curate and has some trustees and also a guardian he can make them supply him with a gardener.

Why She Wept.

Among the Mainotes, descendants of the Spartans, thieving is considered a very honorable employment. An English traveler, being entertained at the house of one of the mountaineers, took some silver articles from a packing case he had with him to eat his dinner with. At the sight of such costliness an old woman began to cry, the Englishman having asked what affected her so much:

"Alas, my good sir," she replied, "I weep because my son is not here to rob you of those beautiful things!"

No Gentleman.

"Mame," said the girl in the red shirt waist and plaid skirt, "ain't he just a prince?"

"Oh, rats!" replied her lady friend, with dignity. "Any one kin see that he wears a cellyoid collar, and them trousers is $3 ones."—Philadelphia North American.

If the poor people did but know how little some millionaires enjoy their wealth, there would be less envy in the world.—Chicago News.

ONLY AN OLD SONG.

But It Illustrated the Curiosity of a New York Crowd.

It was only a song, and an old one at that, but it came near causing a block on the Broadway surface line the other day. The singer was as black as the coal in the cart he was driving, but that fact cast no shadow on his exuberant spirits. As he swung his chariot from Broadway into Cortlandt street he raised his voice. Then the trouble began.

When the notes of "Old Black Joe" rang out high and clear above the din of traffic, expressions of blank amazement overspread the faces of the hurrying pedestrians who thronged the sidewalks. Necks were craned in a vain search for the location of some newly patented phonograph. Crowds collected and gazed vacantly upon the air, as if they expected to locate the sound in some office window; teams were drawn up until a long line of trucks extended up Cortlandt street to Broadway, barring access to the street, that their drivers might ascertain the cause of the crowd's curiosity. Suddenly a newsboy cried:

"Ah, rubber! Dontcher see it's only de nigger a-singin'?"

The crowd laughed. The darky, now lustily holding forth on "The Suwannee River," turned sharply into Church street, totally oblivious to the excitement he had caused. The crowd then dispersed, and the long line of wagons began to move once more.

"Well," exclaimed a Jerseyman on his way to the ferry, "New Yorkers call country people curious, but"—He shrugged his shoulders and passed on.—New York Mail and Express.

The Squeaking Shoe No More.

"Squeaking shoes," said a dealer, "are no more, though of course you haven't noticed it. Stop a minute, though, and think. Isn't it true that for years you haven't come across a squeaking shoe? The thing that caused the trouble was a loose piece of leather in the sole. This, as you walked, worked somewhat like a bellows or an accordion, and great was the sound thereof. All shoes are now sewed—many of them used to be pegged—and sewing does away with any loose pieces of leather in the sole and, therefore, with the squeak as well. I don't believe that if you searched a week you would be able to find a squeaking shoe in Philadelphia."—Philadelphia Press

WORDS OF A STATESMAN.

The inaugural address of President McKinley, published in full in these columns yesterday, is a state paper of vigor, strength and eloquence, the utterances of a patriot and a statesman. Nothing more forceful has ever been spoken by any occupant of the executive chair. A gem of finished oratory, it deserves a place in American archives alongside the farewell address of Washington and the Gettysburg address of Lincoln. Like those immortal declarations, every word expresses a truth and an honest conviction. Witness these extracts:

"The prophets of evil were not the builders of the republic, nor in its crises since have they served or saved it. The faith of the fathers was a mighty force in its creation, and the faith of their descendants has wrought its progress and furnished its defenders. The American people, entrenched in freedom at home, take their love for it with them wherever they go, and they reject as mistaken and unworthy the doctrine that we lose our own liberties by securing the enduring foundations of liberty to others. Our institutions will not deteriorate by extension and our sense of justice will not abate under tropic suns in distant seas. As heretofore, so hereafter, will the nation demonstrate its fitness to administer any new estate which events devolve upon it, and in the fear of God will take occasion by the hand and make the bounds of freedom wider yet."

The address should be read by every American. It will arouse his patriotism and his pride in the nation. And it cannot fail to shed new luster upon the name of McKinley.

EXTENSION OF TROLLEY LINES.

If half the trolley lines that are projected and promised in eastern Ohio are built during the coming summer, many towns, both large and small, will experience a boom. For it is a fact which no one will question who has given the matter attention that the electric railway is a powerful agent in the upbuilding of any sort of town. And in communities as populous as Columbiana and adjacent counties, the demand for inter-town rapid transit is one that must be met. That there is profit in the business is shown by the success of the street railways almost everywhere where they are in operation, and also by the eagerness and the competition of shrewd financiers to secure franchises. The trolley car has its faults, but it is a great public convenience, and no public-spirited and progressive community is likely to shut it out, provided the railway promoters are willing to make reasonable terms for valuable franchises.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM.

The statement, attributed to Prof. Shaler, of Harvard university, that there is likely to be an overproduction of gold by the end of the next thirty years, while it may excite hope of distant success in the breasts of the Bryanites, is not likely to cause any general apprehension. Thirty years is a long time to wait, but the silver people have learned to wait. The rest of us see no visions of more shining wealth than we can manage to dispose of. Analyzed closely, the Shaler statement tells nothing new, except as to the predicted overproduction, and there is room for difference of opinion on that point. Everybody knows that gold is one of the most widely distributed minerals. There is scarcely any part of the earth where it has not been discovered, but usually there is too much dirt mixed with it to pay for extracting the precious metal. The fact that gold has been used in the arts and as a circulating medium since the dawn of civilization and even before, and the world has never found too much for its use, rather militates against the Harvard professor's alleged theory of a probable surplus within the present century. If the silver men can find any comfort in the prediction they are welcome to it. Nobody else will become unduly exercised over it.

The river and harbor bill, in which Ohio valley people were deeply interested, was talked to death in the senate by that eminent Democratic statesman, Carter, of Montana, who got his senate seat, not because he was wanted there, but because he wanted to be there and paid his way thither.

John D. Rockefeller said in a recent speech that the things most to be sought after in life were character, friendship, health and success. One would have thought that the last would be first, in his opinion.

There is now talk in London of making military service compulsory. The Boers appear to be the only people who are not weary of the South African war.

Some of the Pittsburg people seemed to think their "ripper" battle would end when they got the charter bill passed. It looks now as if the fighting had just begun.

Just as East Liverpool was congratulating itself on the approach of spring, winter returned as vigorous as when it was younger.

West Virginia also had an inauguration yesterday, but that at Washington completely overshadowed it.

Lentz and Pettigrew are now back numbers.

ABOUT THE POTTERIES.

Several of the boys at the East End plant suggest that if that lady at Klondike who wants a husband will call, they can furnish the man.

Salem business men regard the prospects for a new pottery as rosy. A preliminary contract has been signed with the projectors and Salem has 15 days to raise the required bonus.

Guarding Her Teeth.

It is easy to misunderstand and easy to be misunderstood, and sometimes, happily, it is easy to give and to accept an explanation.

"I did think I would never come to see you again," said a cousin of the prominent society woman who had come to the country to visit her and was about to start homeward. "It's kind of you to ask me, of course, but I remember that when I was at your house in the city, two years ago, you did not seem glad to see me. You were kind and hospitable, of course, but I remember you did not smile once during the entire two weeks of my stay."

To her astonishment, her city cousin burst into a fit of laughter.

"Maria," she said, "just before you came I had the misfortune to break the porcelain 'crown' from one of my new front teeth, and as my dentist was out of town on his vacation I had to wait for his return. I didn't dare to smile when any one was looking at me, for fear of showing the ghastly metallic 'back' to which the porcelain had been attached. It was a strain, Maria, but I was equal to it, and I did not want to have to explain."

Russell and the Solicitor.

It is said that once when the late Lord Russell, then Sir Charles, was on circuit, he became so indignant with every one in general and his solicitor client in particular that he seized his large and heavy brief and smote the solicitor on the head with it. The solicitor indignantly collected his papers and hurried out of court, murmuring that he would never brief Sir Charles again.

Some time afterward a shipping magnate came to the same solicitor with a big case. "Brief Russell," he said. The solicitor said he was sorry, but it was impossible, as Russell had never apologized. "Then give me my papers," said the shipowner, "and I'll go to some one who will."

Eventually the unhappy man of law, not wishing to lose his best client, had to apologize to Sir Charles Russell for leaving the court when assaulted.—Pearson's Weekly.

Very Like a Scandal.

"This dollar that I hold in my hand," he said, "reminds me of a deep, dark, scandalous secret."

"Oh, George!" his wife exclaimed, dropping her hands in her lap and bending forward eagerly, "tell me about it."

"Yes," he went on, "it reminds me of a secret of that kind, because it's so hard to keep."

And then she refused to speak to him for three hours.—Chicago Times-Herald.

WORDS OF A STATESMAN.

The inaugural address of President McKinley, published in full in these columns yesterday, is a state paper of vigor, strength and eloquence, the utterances of a patriot and a statesman. Nothing more forceful has ever been spoken by any occupant of the executive chair. A gem of finished oratory, it deserves a place in American archives alongside the farewell address of Washington and the Gettysburg address of Lincoln. Like those immortal declarations, every word expresses a truth and an honest conviction. Witness these extracts:

"The prophets of evil were not the builders of the republic, nor in its crises since have they served or saved it. The faith of the fathers was a mighty force in its creation, and the faith of their descendants has wrought its progress and furnished its defenders. The American people, entrenched in freedom at home, take their love for it with them wherever they go, and they reject as mistaken and unworthy the doctrine that we lose our own liberties by securing the enduring foundations of liberty to others. Our institutions will not deteriorate by extension and our sense of justice will not abate under tropic suns in distant seas. As heretofore, so hereafter, will the nation demonstrate its fitness to administer any new estate which events devolve upon it, and in the fear of God will take occasion by the hand and make the bounds of freedom wider yet."

The address should be read by every American. It will arouse his patriotism and his pride in the nation. And it cannot fail to shed new luster upon the name of McKinley.

EXTENSION OF TROLLEY LINES.

If half the trolley lines that are projected and promised in eastern Ohio are built during the coming summer, many towns, both large and small, will experience a boom. For it is a fact which no one will question who has given the matter attention that the electric railway is a powerful agent in the upbuilding of any sort of town. And in communities as populous as Columbiana and adjacent counties, the demand for inter-town rapid transit is one that must be met. That there is profit in the business is shown by the success of the street railways almost everywhere where they are in operation, and also by the eagerness and the competition of shrewd financiers to secure franchises. The trolley car has its faults, but it is a great public convenience, and no public-spirited and progressive community is likely to shut it out, provided the railway promoters are willing to make reasonable terms for valuable franchises.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM.

The statement, attributed to Prof. Shaler, of Harvard university, that there is likely to be an overproduction of gold by the end of the next thirty years, while it may excite hope of distant success in the breasts of the Bryanites, is not likely to cause any general apprehension. Thirty years is a long time to wait, but the silver people have learned to wait. The rest of us see no visions of more shining wealth than we can manage to dispose of. Analyzed closely, the Shaler statement tells nothing new, except as to the predicted overproduction, and there is room for difference of opinion on that point. Everybody knows that gold is one of the most widely distributed minerals. There is scarcely any part of the earth where it has not been discovered, but usually there is too much dirt mixed with it to pay for extracting the precious metal. The fact that gold has been used in the arts and as a circulating medium since the dawn of civilization and even before, and the world has never found too much for its use, rather militates against the Harvard professor's alleged theory of a probable surplus within the present century. If the silver men can find any comfort in the prediction they are welcome to it. Nobody else will become unduly exercised over it.

The river and harbor bill, in which Ohio valley people were deeply interested, was talked to death in the senate by that eminent Democratic statesman, Carter, of Montana, who got his senate seat, not because he was wanted there, but because he wanted to be there and paid his way thither.

John D. Rockefeller said in a recent speech that the things most to be sought after in life were character, friendship, health and success. One would have thought that the last would be first, in his opinion.

There is now talk in London of making military service compulsory. The Boers appear to be the only people who are not weary of the South African war.

Some of the Pittsburg people seemed to think their "ripper" battle would end when they got the charter bill passed. It looks now as if the fighting had just begun.

Just as East Liverpool was congratulating itself on the approach of spring, winter returned as vigorous as when it was younger.

West Virginia also had an inauguration yesterday, but that at Washington completely overshadowed it.

Lentz and Pettigrew are now back numbers.

ABOUT THE POTTERIES.

Several of the boys at the East End plant suggest that if that lady at Klondike who wants a husband will call, they can furnish the man.

Salem business men regard the prospects for a new pottery as rosy. A preliminary contract has been signed with the projectors and Salem has 15 days to raise the required bonus.

Guarding Her Teeth.

It is easy to misunderstand and easy to be misunderstood, and sometimes, happily, it is easy to give and to accept an explanation.

"I did think I would never come to see you again," said a cousin of the prominent society woman who had come to the country to visit her and was about to start homeward. "It's kind of you to ask me, of course, but I remember that when I was at your house in the city, two years ago, you did not seem glad to see me. You were kind and hospitable, of course, but I remember you did not smile once during the entire two weeks of my stay."

To her astonishment, her city cousin burst into a fit of laughter.

"Maria," she said, "just before you came I had the misfortune to break the porcelain 'crown' from one of my new front teeth, and as my dentist was out of town on his vacation I had to wait for his return. I didn't dare to smile when any one was looking at me, for fear of showing the ghastly metallic 'back' to which the porcelain had been attached. It was a strain, Maria, but I was equal to it, and I did not want to have to explain."

Russell and the Solicitor.

It is said that once when the late Lord Russell, then Sir Charles, was on circuit, he became so indignant with every one in general and his solicitor client in particular that he seized his large and heavy brief and smote the solicitor on the head with it. The solicitor indignantly collected his papers and hurried out of court, murmuring that he would never brief Sir Charles again.

Some time afterward a shipping magnate came to the same solicitor with a big case. "Brief Russell," he said. The solicitor said he was sorry, but it was impossible, as Russell had never apologized. "Then give me my papers," said the shipowner, "and I'll go to some one who will."

Eventually the unhappy man of law, not wishing to lose his best client, had to apologize to Sir Charles Russell for leaving the court when assaulted.—Pearson's Weekly.

Very Like a Scandal.

"This dollar that I hold in my hand," he said, "reminds me of a deep, dark, scandalous secret."

"Oh, George!" his wife exclaimed, dropping her hands in her lap and bending forward eagerly, "tell me about it."

"Yes," he went on, "it reminds me of a secret of that kind, because it's so hard to keep."

And then she refused to speak to him for three hours.—Chicago Times-Herald.

A BUSY SESSION OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Spring Vacation Decided On—Miss Emma Kinney Appointed to the Grant Street Vacancy.

The board of education had a busy session last evening. There were present President Vodrey, Clerk Hill and Members Taggart, Murphy and Wells.

|---|---------|
| Ceramic City Light Co..... | $ 8 50 |
| Arbuthnot & Bro., fitting | 9 00 |
| Watson & Sloan, supplies..... | 55 |
| Ohio Valley Gas Co..... | 295 35 |
| Ft. Pitt Gas Co..... | 114 00 |
| Union Typewriter Co..... | 85 |
| Robert Hall, lumber | 6 25 |
| American Book Co..... | 33 67 |
| R. E. Rayman, expenses to Chicago | 31 55 |

A bill received from the Barnhart company, claiming a small amount for a desk, was referred to the superintendent and janitor.

The Kinsey Plumbing company presented a bill for gas fitting at the Grant street building, but it was not paid.

The clerk was instructed to look up the account of Frank Crook for $93 62, claimed due for supplies, as some of the members thought it had already been paid.

A. W. Corns presented a bill for $22 40, as a balance for filters supplied to the various buildings. It was reported that the articles in use at the East End and the Third street building were not satisfactory. The bill was not paid.

Clerk Hill stated he had a bill from the Smith-Premier Typewriter company, claiming $2 50 for a cover. The clerk was instructed to notify the company that the account was not correct.

A communication from the Peck-Williamson company objected to paying for a quantity of iron bars supplied by a local contractor and also against paying a plumbing bill charged to them. The board held that neither of the sub-contracts had been let by it. Clerk Hill and Architect Scott will communicate with the concern.

Superintendent Rayman reported having received the resignation of Miss Lena Coventry, who had been teaching at the Grant street building. The resignation was accepted. Superintendent Rayman recommended Miss Emma Kinney for the vacancy at a salary of $30 per month and she was appointed.

The question of a spring vacation was brought up, and after some discussion it was decided to have one week of vacation, to commence the 1st of April. This is the first time the custom has been observed here for many years.

The auditing committee made its report, showing the clerk's books to be in first-class condition, and commending him upon a number of improved methods.

The committee recommended that the audit be made each year. The report was ordered spread upon the minutes, after which the meeting adjourned.

THEIR SCHEME FRUSTRATED.

Two Girls Who Expected to Leave the City And Did Not.

Two young girls of this city thought the sights here were getting a little old and they would depart for a strange land. They went to the passenger station Saturday evening, and after changing their clothes for some they had brought from home, purchased tickets for Beaver. When the 8 o'clock train arrived they boarded it and held a newspaper over the window so as to keep them from being seen.

In some manner the mother of one of the girls learned of their intentions, and going to the passenger station she was told they were on the train. The mother got on the train and finding the girls, compelled them to get off and go home.

The Shipmaster's Cow.

A certain farmer is telling mean things about a Rockland shipmaster. "The shipmaster," he says, "bought a cow of a man down my way; good critter—nothin the matter with her. But it seems the captain's wife one day thought the milk tasted funny and suggested that p'raps she'd been eatin spruce boughs; said the milk tasted like spruce. And what does he do but go out in the pasture to watch the cow, to see what she did eat. The cow was layin down, chewin her cud, and he went erlong and run his finger in her mouth to see what she was eatin. Then he was mad. He put a rope on the cow and started off with her. He met a neighbor, who says, 'Where are you goin with the cow?' 'Goin to take her back to the feller that sold her to me. He's cheated me, and I won't stand it.'

"The man wanted to know what was the matter, and he went on to tell about it and says: 'She wasn't eatin boughs, but she was chewin gum; that's what's the matter with the milk and makes it taste like spruce. And,' he says, 'that ain't all. She's so addicted to the habit that she's worn all her teeth out. She ain't got an upper tooth in her head. Back she goes, quick.'

"Of course, the man told him that it was all nonsense—that cows never had no upper teeth. But he didn't believe a word of it and went on and had a tarral row with the man that sold him the cow. Guess he was never satisfied about it or knew what a darned fool he was makin of himself."—Rockland (Me.) Opinion.

Generous Great Britain.

Britain's "earth hunger" is a common sneer on the continent, but look at what we have given away without the least reason!

We took the Ionian Islands in 1809 and handed them over to Greece for nothing about 50 years afterward. Corsica shows George III as its king, but we abandoned it three years later, and the French naturally grabbed it. Tangier came to us by the marriage of Charles II. We abandoned it at the end of 22 years.

We took Cuba in 1762 and handed it back to the Spaniards, after holding it for 10 months. We took the Philippines and returned them to the same country for £800,000—which was never paid.

Here is a short list of other places which we once held and gave up without compulsion; Minorca, Sicily, Sardinia, Buenos Ayres, Montevideo, Java, Pondicherry, Celebes, Moluccas, Elba and about 50 other places.

We took Cape Colony in 1795, but gave it up again to the Dutch. In 1806 we took it again—and kept it.—London Standard.

Her Opinion of Compliments.

"No," said Miss Cayenne, "I don't care for people who continually pay compliments."

"But it shows an amiable disposition."

"Perhaps, but the habit reminds me that some people are willing to pay only what costs them nothing and what they don't really owe."—Washington Star.

The Lieutenant's Brother.

It may not be generally known that it is considered a serious offense for a German soldier, no matter what may be his rank, to appear in public except in uniform, even though he be on furlough. The army regulations strictly enjoin that he must always wear his uniform.

A certain Lieutenant Schmidt, who was engaged in some lively adventure or other, dressed up as a civilian and was having altogether an enjoyable time until, on turning a corner, he unexpectedly met his colonel.

The lieutenant did not, however, lose his presence of mind. He pretended that he had never seen his colonel before and in a changed voice asked:

"Can you tell me, sir, where Lieutenant Schmidt lives? I am his brother from the country and am paying him a little visit, but I happen just now to have lost my way."

The colonel quietly gave the desired information, and Lieutenant Schmidt, congratulating himself on his lucky escape, hurried home and put on his uniform with all possible speed.

He thought, of course, that he had taken in his superior officer, but such an idea was rudely dispelled when on the next day he met his colonel, and the latter said:

A certain farmer is telling mean things about a Rockland shipmaster. "The shipmaster," he says, "bought a cow of a man down my way; good critter—nothin the matter with her. But it seems the captain's wife one day thought the milk tasted funny and suggested that p'raps she'd been eatin spruce boughs; said the milk tasted like spruce. And what does he do but go out in the pasture to watch the cow, to see what she did eat. The cow was layin down, chewin her cud, and he went erlong and run his finger in her mouth to see what she was eatin. Then he was mad. He put a rope on the cow and started off with her. He met a neighbor, who says, 'Where are you goin with the cow?' 'Goin to take her back to the feller that sold her to me. He's cheated me, and I won't stand it.'"

"The man wanted to know what was the matter, and he went on to tell about it and says: 'She wasn't eatin boughs, but she was chewin gum; that's what's the matter with the milk and makes it taste like spruce. And,' he says, 'that ain't all. She's so addicted to the habit that she's worn all her teeth out. She ain't got an upper tooth in her head. Back she goes, quick.'"

"Of course, the man told him that it was all nonsense—that cows never had no upper teeth. But he didn't believe a word of it and went on and had a tarral row with the man that sold him the cow. Guess he was never satisfied about it or knew what a darned fool he was makin of himself."—Rockland (Me.) Opinion.

Generous Great Britain.

Britain's "earth hunger" is a common sneer on the continent, but look at what we have given away without the least reason!

We took the Ionian Islands in 1809 and handed them over to Greece for nothing about 50 years afterward. Corsica shows George III as its king, but we abandoned it three years later, and the French naturally grabbed it.

Tangier came to us by the marriage of Charles II. We abandoned it at the end of 22 years.

We took Cuba in 1762 and handed it back to the Spaniards, after holding it for 10 months. We took the Philippines and returned them to the same country for $800,000—which was never paid.

Here is a short list of other places which we once held and gave up without compulsion; Minorca, Sicily, Sardinia, Buenos Ayres, Montevideo, Java, Pondicherry, Celebes, Moluccas, Elba and about 50 other places.

We took Cape Colony in 1795, but gave it up again to the Dutch. In 1806 we took it again—and kept it.—London Standard.

Her Opinion of Compliments.

"No," said Miss Cayenne, "I don't care for people who continually pay compliments."

"But it shows an amiable disposition."

"Perhaps, but the habit reminds me that some people are willing to pay only what costs them nothing and what they don't really owe."—Washington Star.

The Lieutenant's Brother.

It may not be generally known that it is considered a serious offense for a German soldier, no matter what may be his rank, to appear in public except in uniform, even though he be on furlough. The army regulations strictly enjoin that he must always wear his uniform.

A certain Lieutenant Schmidt, who was engaged in some lively adventure or other, dressed up as a civilian and was having altogether an enjoyable time until, on turning a corner, he unexpectedly met his colonel.

The lieutenant did not, however, lose his presence of mind. He pretended that he had never seen his colonel before and in a changed voice asked:

The colonel quietly gave the desired information, and Lieutenant Schmidt, congratulating himself on his lucky escape, hurried home and put on his uniform with all possible speed.

He thought, of course, that he had taken in his superior officer, but such an idea was rudely dispelled when on the next day he met his colonel, and the latter said:

A BRILLIANT CLIMAX

Inaugural Day Festivities at the Capital Close With a Splendid Ball.

GREAT SPECTACULAR EVENT

In This Respect Wholly Unparalleled. Mrs. McKinley Not Able to Participate—President McKinley and Party Occupied the Embowered Box

Washington, March 5.—The culminating event of the inaugural festivities was the inaugural ball, held last night in the vast auditorium of the pension office. As a spectacular event it was unparalleled in the history of inaugural balls, in the sumptuousness of arrangement, in the bewildering splendor of decorations and of marvelous electrical effects, and of the countless throng taking part in the spectacle.

When the doors of the great structure were thrown open about 8 o'clock an eager crowd besieged every entrance and lines of carriages stretched into the surrounding streets and avenues. Platoons of police officers, mounted and unmounted, guarded the outer entrances, keeping back the rush of curious spectators and bringing order out of the tangle of carriages. Through the long arched entrances, hung with bunting and vines, passed the merry, pleasure-seeking throng, the women in luxurious gowns, with the flash of jewels in their hair and at their throats. Soon the vast interior of the building began to take on life and animation.

The presidential party arrived about 10:15 o'clock. They were preceded by a glittering array of officers in full uniform and were escorted to the private offices of Commissioner Evans, which had been lavishly decorated. The president bowed and smiled as he passed through the throng. Senator and Mrs. Hanna, Lieutenant General and Mrs. Miles, several of the justices of the supreme court, with their wives, and a number of the cabinet circle joined the party upstairs. The crowds on the main floor had been pushed back to make room for the grand march, and the band was ready to break into the opening strains of the march from "Tannhauser." But word came that Mrs. McKinley was indisposed and that the president would remain by her side. The march consequently was abandoned. The band struck up Strauss' "Blue Danube," and the first regret of the assemblage at missing the grand march, with the president and the first lady of the land at its head, gave way before the whirl of gaiety on the ball room floor. Vice President and Mrs. Roosevelt arrived about the time the president came in. After paying their respects to the president and holding an informal levee amid the groups of governors, officers, senators and distinguished officials, the vice president and his wife proceeded to the ball room floor.

Now the scene was at its height. Under the golden canopy and the dazzling glint of lights moved the shifting throngs—women in exquisite toilets, dowagers and matrons in rare old laces, buds and debutantes in dainty Paris creations. With them were officials distinguished in every branch of public life, grave supreme court justices, governors of states surrounded by their brilliantly uniformed staffs and aides, ambassadors and ministers in gold lace and decorations, the highest ranking officers of the army, navy and marine corps, senators and representatives, officers of Troop A, the president's crack organization, in uniforms of Austrian Hussars. As the orchestra and band alternated, this ever moving throng joined in promenade and dance, making a vast kaleidoscopic picture.

escort distinguished guests to the president.

Mrs. McKinley's indisposition was of brief duration and she was soon able to join the president and the brilliant assemblage in an embowered box overlooking the gay throngs below. The president occupied a seat at the right near the rail, with Mrs. McKinley at his side. To their left sat Vice President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Near the vice president was Governor Odell of New York, while grouped further back were Major General Corbin, Admirals Bradford and Crowninshield, Secretary Root, Justices Harlan and Gray, Senator Lodge, Governor Stone of Pennsylvania, and many ladies of the cabinet, army, navy and official set.

The presidential party and Vice President and Mrs. Roosevelt left the ball about 12:15 o'clock. Before leaving they partook of a lunch, with a large number of invited guests, in the private dining room. The festivities went on unabated until a late hour.

Lane's Car Carried Ferrell.

Panhandle trainmen have noted the peculiar fact that just about the same time in the night that Rosslyn Ferrell killed Express Messenger Lane he was electrocuted. At the moment the current was turned on which ended Ferrell's career train No. 8, on which the murder was committed, was speeding along over the same piece of track that it occupied on the night the crime happened. Another peculiar thing noted is the report that the same express car on which Lane was working was used to carry the remains of Ferrell to Steubenville.

Not a Joke With Jones.

William Jones, the Wellsville boss roller, recovered on Saturday evening the envelope containing the pay of himself and crew, which he thought he lost on the streets. The envelope contained about $250. A friend abstracted it from Jones' pocket as a joke. Jones couldn't see the humor in it.

NOT FOR A CHANGE

Dr. DeWitt Does Not Favor a Revision of the Creed Just Now.

TO DISCOURAGE DISPUTES

An Earnest And United Effort for the Salvation of the World Should Be Made Instead of Indulging in Doctrinal Controversies.

New York, March 5.—"Proposed Creedal Changes" was the topic of discourse at the March meeting of the Presbyterian union, which was held last night at the Hotel Savoy. The speakers were Rev. Dr. John De Witt, professor of church history at Princeton seminary; Rev. Dr. George Black Stewart, president and professor of practical theology, Auburn seminary, and Dr. Herrick Johnson, professor of sacred rhetoric and pastoral theology at the McCormick seminary, Chicago.

Rev. Dr. De Witt's topic was "The established standards of the Presbyterian church should in this crisis be reaffirmed and left unchanged." He said in part:

"Were the present period one of profound and enthusiastic faith in positive religious truths, which, after deep study and long debate, had come to distinct expression in the general consciousness of the church, then it would be wrong and useless to try to prevent what had already expressed itself in the church's consciousness, from being formulated in the church's symbols."

The speaker made a veiled reference to a recent work by Rev. Henry Vandyke, formerly pastor of the Brick church.

"And it is the gospel for an age of doubt which one of our own clergymen eloquently and with literary grace commends to students about to begin their ministry. I am not criticizing either our theological seminaries or Dr. Vandyke. I am only trying to set forth the condition which confronts us. The present crisis is the farthest removed from those out of which issued the vital and abiding creeds of the church of God. The age is one of doubt, not one of faith."

On this ground, especially, the speaker pleaded for a cessation of all disputes on the creed question and earnest and united effort for the salvation of the world.

The next speaker was Rev. Dr. George Black Stewart, who spoke on "Entirely new standards of belief are demanded at the present time."

Rev. Herrick Johnson followed. He spoke on the following proposition: "While it would be inadvisable to discard the established standards of the Presbyterian church, the time has come when they should be modernized in form and modified in certain statements."

FIVE KILLED IN A MINE.

In Addition to the Dead Two Were Seriously Injured In Missouri Zinc Shaft.

Joplin, Mo., March 5.—Five men were killed and two others seriously injured in a mine accident at the Engleside zinc mine in Center Valley, eight miles east of Joplin.

The injured are William Daniels and John Burton.

The seven men were in the ground cutting a drift from the main shaft. The five men killed were confined in the drift and the others were in the main shaft. Two shots had been fired, but the whole charge failed to explode. A whole box of powder was sent down into the mine. One of the men accidentally discharged an unexploded shot and the box of powder was set on fire, resulting in terrible destruction. A man at the surface entrance of the mine was thrown 30 feet in the air. Center Valley is an isolated place, and further details are not yet obtainable.

Panhandle trainmen have noted the peculiar fact that just about the same time in the night that Rosslyn Ferrell killed Express Messenger Lane he was electrocuted. At the moment the current was turned on which ended Ferrell's career train No. 8, on which the murder was committed, was speeding along over the same piece of track that it occupied on the night the crime happened. Another peculiar thing noted is the report that the same express car on which Lane was working was used to carry the remains of Ferrell to Steubenville.

William Jones, the Wellsville boss roller, recovered on Saturday evening the envelope containing the pay of himself and crew, which he thought he lost on the streets. The envelope contained about $250. A friend abstracted it from Jones' pocket as a joke. Jones couldn't see the humor in it.

NOT FOR A CHANGE

Dr. DeWitt Does Not Favor a Revision of the Creed Just Now.

An Earnest And United Effort for the Salvation of the World Should Be Made Instead of Indulging in Doctrinal Controversies.

New York, March 5.—"Proposed Creedal Changes" was the topic of discourse at the March meeting of the Presbyterian union, which was held last night at the Hotel Savoy. The speakers were Rev. Dr. John De Witt, professor of church history at Princeton seminary; Rev. Dr. George Black Stewart, president and professor of practical theology, Auburn seminary, and Dr. Herrick Johnson, professor of sacred rhetoric and pastoral theology at the McCormick seminary, Chicago.

Rev. Dr. De Witt's topic was "The established standards of the Presbyterian church should in this crisis be reaffirmed and left unchanged." He said in part:

"Were the present period one of profound and enthusiastic faith in positive religious truths, which, after deep study and long debate, had come to distinct expression in the general consciousness of the church, then it would be wrong and useless to try to prevent what had already expressed itself in the church's consciousness, from being formulated in the church's symbols."

The speaker made a veiled reference to a recent work by Rev. Henry Vandyke, formerly pastor of the Brick church.

"And it is the gospel for an age of doubt which one of our own clergymen eloquently and with literary grace commends to students about to begin their ministry. I am not criticising either our theological seminaries or Dr. Vandyke. I am only trying to set forth the condition which confronts us. The present crisis is the farthest removed from those out of which issued the vital and abiding creeds of the church of God. The age is one of doubt, not one of faith." On this ground, especially, the speaker pleaded for a cessation of all disputes on the creed question and earnest and united effort for the salvation of the world.

The next speaker was Rev. Dr. George Black Stewart, who spoke on "Entirely new standards of belief are demanded at the present time."

Rev. Herrick Johnson followed. He spoke on the following proposition: "While it would be inadvisable to discard the established standards of the Presbyterian church, the time has come when they should be modernized in form and modified in certain statements."

FIVE KILLED IN A MINE.

In Addition to the Dead Two Were Seriously Injured In Missouri Zinc Shaft.

Joplin, Mo., March 5.—Five men were killed and two others seriously injured in a mine accident at the Engleside zinc mine in Center Valley, eight miles east of Joplin.

The dead are: Hale Foster, George Wilson, William Buzzard, Ed Stotard and Fitz Morris.

The injured are William Daniels and John Burton.

The seven men were in the ground cutting a drift from the main shaft. The five men killed were confined in the drift and the others were in the main shaft. Two shots had been fired, but the whole charge failed to explode. A whole box of powder was sent down into the mine. One of the men accidentally discharged an unexploded shot and the box of powder was set on fire, resulting in terrible destruction. A man at the surface entrance of the mine was thrown 30 feet in the air. Center Valley is an isolated place, and further details are not yet obtainable.

4,500 PRISONERS AT MANILA

Fighting Now Mostly Confined to Marauding Bands Which Flee When Attacked—Prospect of Early Establishment of Civil Government.

Manila, March 5.—In an interview
Mr. D. M. Carman, the American contractor who is charged with aiding the insurgents and who was recently released on $10,000 bail, said that sickness prevented his making an extended statement now. He asserted that he had done nothing unauthorized, and that he was hopeful of securing complete vindication. He said:

"Whenever I made a dollar, others
made money, too."

Captain Hand, of the Forty-fifth
United States volunteer infantry, and Captain McLean, of the Forty-seventh United States volunteer infantry,
co-operating with the gunboat Don Juan de Austria, surprised a body of insurgents in camp near the town of Posacon, on the coast of Camarines province, Luzon, and captured an insurgent commissary general and a quantity of supplies.

Protesio Montejar, leader of the insurgent forces on the island of Panay,
with 7 officers, 45 men and 38 rifles,
surrendered to Captain Barker, of the Twenty-sixth.

Fifteen ex-insurgent leaders and about 500 followers took the oath of allegiance to the United States at Concepcion, island of Panay, and about 200 more, it was asserted, promise soon to swear fealty. This may extinguish the rebellion in that district.

About 4,500 insurgent prisoners are held at Manila. The new prison on Grande island, in Subig bay, about 60 miles west of Manila, has been completed, and about a thousand prisoners will be sent there from Manila on the 7th of this month.

The provincial officers of the provinces of Bulacan and Bataan took the oath of office.

Major Hughes reported that Mondgar, an important insurgent commander in the vicinity of Iloilo, island of Panay, has surrendered, with 50 men.
Hundreds are reported to have sworn allegiance to the United States government at various points.

The character of some of the measures which the commissioners were privately considering indicated their expectation of the early establishment of the general civil government.
Whether President McKinley and Secretary Root were in full accord with them regarding this important point was not known here, but if the situation continues to develop favorably it is believed that a Philippine government will be created in the course of a few months.

The fact that there have been no insurgent attacks for months, except isolated instances of firing volleys
into towns by marauders, who most times run away at the top of their speed, the rapid spread of peace sentiment in all directions, the large number of those who surrender, and the willingness to take the oath of allegiance on all sides—these and similar considerations are all regarded as pointing to the virtual establishment of peace in the near future.

Commissioner Wright last evening completed the draft of a bill, which will doubtless pass the commission
before the end of the week, establishing a department of insular constabulary. It creates the office of insular chief of constabulary, the incumbent of which will be appointed by the commission and will have general control as the chief peace officer in the island. He will be authorized to appoint municipal constabulary chiefs, Americans or natives, for the various municipalities, as well as assistant chiefs. In each of the four districts of the archipelago there will be a constable for each 1,000 inhabitants of each municipality, and not exceeding one officer for each barrio.
All the police organized under military control, including those in Manila, will be incorporated in the new department. The act will go into effect immediately on adoption.

SABBATH VIOLATED.

Congress Condemned For Meeting Last Sunday—Action by Ministers
and Elders.

Danville, Pa., March 5.—At a meeting of ministers and elders of Northumberland Presbyterian church, held here, the following resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote:

"The presbytery of Northumberland has learned with distress and alarm
of the session of the national congress
for the transaction of ordinary business held on the Sabbath day, March
3. This needless disregard of the Lord's day is at once a violation of the civil law, an affront to the Christian conscience of the country, an evil example to lawbreakers in general, a wicked departure from the reverent custom of the father of the republic, and an offense to Almighty
God, the gracious giver of the day of rest. It is against the general well-fare, deserves universal reprobation,
and, we earnestly hope, may not prove a precedent for future meetings of our national legislature."

MILITIA CALLED OUT.

Indiana Mob Threatens an Arrested on a Serious Charge.

Tipton, Ind., March 5.—The police discovered that a mob had been quietly organized to lynch H. H. Edmonds, a well-known citizen, aged 45 years. He was lodged in jail charged with taking improper liberties with the 11-year-old daughter of W. H.
Ross, a prominent citizen. The sheriff communicated by wire with Governor Durbin, and as a result the latter ordered the local militia company
out to guard the prisoner.

It is alleged that Edmonds called at the Ross home last Friday to use the telephone, and, finding the girl alone,
he conducted himself improperly toward her. When the child's mother returned home and was told of what had happened she secured a revolver
and called upon Edmonds, who denied the whole story. The mother
then attempted to draw the revolver,
which was concealed in her apron,
but it dropped to the floor as he hastened away.

The facts did not come to light until Monday. Edmonds was arrested.

HOPES THE QUEEN WILL PLEAD.

Mother of Mrs. Maybrick Talks of Her Daughter's Prospects.

London, March 5.—Baroness de
Roques, who arrived in London last evening to make her quarterly visit to her daughter, Mrs. Florence Maybrick, at Aylesbury prison, said to a representative of the Associated Press:

"I have no intention to visit the United States embassy or to contribute in any way to the agitation for my daughter's release at this time. Some unwarranted statements as have recently been made can only injure the cause I seek to serve."

"I have had no communication with any officials of the government or with the United States embassy. I do not think that the persistent policy of a decade will be immediately reversed, but I sincerely hope that dear, kind Queen Alexandra will think of our sufferings and plead for us with the king."

"I shall return immediately to Paris,
and I hope that, for the present, no
inconsiderate friend will do anything to mar the hopes we entertain for the future."

Governor White Inaugurated.

Charleston, W. Va., March 5.—State officers were inaugurated at the capitol.
Speeches were made by the outgoing Governor Atkinson and the incoming Governor White. The oath of office was administered by Presiding Judge Brannon, of the supreme court.

Shot by a Man Who Suicided.

Chicago, March 5.—Charles Merrill,
a tea merchant, was shot in the back of the head and severely injured
here by John Correa, a bookkeeper, who then committed suicide. The shooting was said to have been caused by a dispute over the firm's books.

Saloman Says Control of C., L. & W. Has Been Secured.

New York, March 5.—William Salo-man, chairman of the board of directors of the Baltimore and Ohio Railway company, said:

"It is true that this company has purchased the control of the Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling Railroad company. We now have a majority of the stock in our possession. I cannot say when we will take physical control of the property."

Cleveland's Advice Regarding Clubs of Young Democrats.

New York, March 5.—Grover Cleveland has written to Arthur De V.
Storey, president of the Young Men's Democratic club, of the Twenty-first assembly district, the pioneer club in the movement to organize the young Democrats of this city in a political association to give supplementary work to the regular Democratic organizations in each assembly district. The organization is a practical application of the advice given by Mr. Cleveland to young men to enter politics. His letter says:

"I know that a body of young Democrats, associated for the purpose of disinterested work and whose object is to make better known and stimulate devotion to intelligent democracy, will not be long ignored by party managers, and that when once recognized their influence for political good will easily follow. But it is of vital importance that their efforts should be patriotic, untrammelled and intelligent. As soon as an association of this kind becomes effective and strong, temptations will be put in its way that must be shunned or resisted, if it would retain its usefulness and influence in the attempt

DE WET WAS HEADED.

Was Moving on Philippolis, but Turned Toward Fauresmith.

London, March 5.—A dispatch from General Kitchener, dated Pretoria,
March 4, said:

"De Wet was moving on Philippo-
lis, but was headed by our troops,
and is now marching on Fauresmith.
"Babington has dug up a Krupp,
a Pompon and some ammunition at Landfontein."

"Sixteen men of the Victoria rifles have captured 33 Boers and 50 horses
at Sea Cow river."

"General Dantnell has captured a Hotchkiss near Pietertief."

"Surrenders continue in that district. Over 50 men, with a command ant, came in March 2."

Just the Opposite.

"When I first met you," cried the woman who had been married for her money, "you occupied a low, mental position, but now, thanks to me, your position"—
"Is a hymeneal one," her husband interrupted. Exchange.

His Terrible Cough.

Few things are so depressing and weakening as a constant cough.
Few things are as discouraging as a cough that will not yield to treatment. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures coughs when all other medicines fail, because it is more than a cough medicine. The cough is but a symptom. "Discovery" makes new and pure blood, heals the lacerated tissues, and gives the body the needed
strength to throw off disease. It cures
the cough by curing the cause of the cough. There is no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, or other narcotic in the "Discovery."

"I had a terrible cough something over a year ago and could find nothing to stop it, or even to do me a particle of good," writes Mr. J. M. Farr, of Cameron, Screven Co., Ga. "I chanced to see an advertisement of yours, and forthwith bought a bottle of your invaluable 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Before I had taken half a bot-

Fighting Now Mostly Confined to Ma-
rauding Bands Which Flee When Attacked—Prospect of Early Establishment of Civil Government.

Manila, March 5.—In an interview
Mr. D. M. Carman, the American
contractor who is charged with aiding the insurgents and who was recently released on $10,000 bail, said
that sickness prevented his making an extended statement now. He asserted that he had done nothing unauthorized, and that he was hopeful
of securing complete vindication. He said:

"Whenever I made a dollar, others
made money, too."

Captain Hand, of the Forty-fifth
United States volunteer infantry, and Captain McLean, of the Forty-seventh United States volunteer infantry,
co-operating with the gunboat Don Juan de Austria, surprised a body of insurgents in camp near the town of Posacao, on the coast of Camarines province, Luzon, and captured an insurgent commissary general and a quantity of supplies.

Protesio Montejar, leader of the insurgent forces on the island of Panay,
with 7 officers, 45 men and 38 rifles,
surrendered to Captain Barker, of the Twenty-sixth.

Fifteen ex-insurgent leaders and
about 500 followers took the oath of allegiance to the United States at Concepcion, island of Panay, and
about 200 more, it was asserted,
promise soon to swear fealty. This may extinguish the rebellion in that district.

About 4,500 insurgent prisoners are held at Manila. The new prison on Grande island, in Subig bay, about 60 miles west of Manila, has been completed, and about a thousand prisoners will be sent there from Manila on the 7th of this month.

The provincial officers of the provinces of Bulacan and Bataan took the oath of office.

Major Hughes reported that Mondgar, an important insurgent commander in the vicinity of Iloilo, island of Panay, has surrendered, with 50 men.
Hundreds are reported to have sworn allegiance to the United States
government at various points.

The character of some of the measures which the commissioners were privately considering indicated their expectation of the early establishment
of the general civil government.
Whether President McKinley and Secretary Root were in full accord
with them regarding this important point was not known here, but if the situation continues to develop favorably it is believed that a Philippine government will be created in the course of a few months.

The fact that there have been no
insurgent attacks for months, except
isolated instances of firing volleys
into towns by marauders, who
most times run away at the top of their speed, the rapid spread of peace
sentiment in all directions, the large number of those who surrender, and
the willingness to take the oath of allegiance on all sides—these and similar considerations are all regarded as pointing to the virtual establishment of peace in the near future.

Commissioner Wright last evening
completed the draft of a bill, which will doubtless pass the commission
before the end of the week, establishing a department of insular constabulary. It creates the office of insular chief of constabulary, the in-
by the commission and will have general control as the chief peace officer in the island. He will be authorized to appoint municipal constabulary chiefs, Americans or natives, for the various municipalities, as well as assistant chiefs. In each of the four districts of the archipelago there will be a constable for each 1,000 inhabitants of each municipality, and not exceeding one officer for each barrio.
All the police organized under military control, including those in Manila, will be incorporated in the new department. The act will go into effect immediately on adoption.

SABBATH VIOLATED.

Congress Condemned For Meeting Last Sunday—Action by Ministers
and Elders.

Danville, Pa., March 5.—At a meeting of ministers and elders of Northumberland Presbyterian church, held here, the following resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote:

"The presbytery of Northumberland
has learned with distress and alarm
of the session of the national congress
for the transaction of ordinary business held on the Sabbath day, March
3. This needless disregard of the Lord's day is at once a violation of the civil law, an affront to the Christian conscience of the country, an evil example to lawbreakers in general, a wicked departure from the reverent custom of the father of the republic, and an offense to Almighty
God, the gracious giver of the day of rest. It is against the general welfare, deserves universal reprobation,
and, we earnestly hope, may not
prove a precedent for future meet-

MILITIA CALLED OUT.

Indiana Mob Threatens an Arrested on a Serious Charge.

Tipton, Ind., March 5.—The police
discovered that a mob had been quietly organized to lynch H. H. Edmonds, a well-known citizen, aged 45
years. He was lodged in jail charged with taking improper liberties with
the 11-year-old daughter of W. H.
Ross, a prominent citizen. The sheriff communicated by wire with Governor Durbin, and as a result the latter ordered the local militia company
out to guard the prisoner.

It is alleged that Edmonds called at the Ross home last Friday to use the telephone, and, finding the girl alone,
he conducted himself improperly toward her. When the child's mother returned home and was told of what had happened she secured a revolver
and called upon Edmonds, who denied the whole story. The mother
then attempted to draw the revolver,
which was concealed in her apron,
but it dropped to the floor as he hastened away.

The facts did not come to light un-

Daughter's Prospects.

London, March 5.—Baroness de
Roques, who arrived in London last evening to make her quarterly visit
to her daughter, Mrs. Florence Maybrick, at Aylesbury prison, said to a representative of the Associated Press:

"I have no intention to visit the United States embassy or to contribute in any way to the agitation
for my daughter's release at this time. Some unwarranted statements
as have recently been made can only
injure the cause I seek to serve.

"I have had no communication with any officials of the government or
with the United States embassy. I
do not think that the persistent policy of a decade will be immediately
reversed, but I sincerely hope that
dear, kind Queen Alexandra will think of our sufferings and plead for
us with the king.

"I shall return immediately to Paris,
and I hope that, for the present, no
inconsiderate friend will do anything
to mar the hopes we entertain for the future."

Governor White Inaugurated.

Charleston, W. Va., March 5.—State officers were inaugurated at the capitol. Speeches were made by the outgoing Governor Atkinson and the incoming Governor White. The oath of office was administered by Presiding Judge Brannon, of the supreme court.

Shot by a Man Who Suicided.

Chicago, March 5.—Charles Merrill,
a tea merchant, was shot in the back

here by John Correa, a bookkeeper,
who then committed suicide. The
shooting was said to have been caus-

Saloman Say, Control o C., L. & W. Has

New York, March 5.—William Salo-

tors of the Baltimore and Ohio Railway company, said:

"It is true that this company has purchased the control of the Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling Railroad company. We now have a majority of the stock in our possession. I cannot say when we will take physical
control of the property."

Cleveland's Advice Regarding Clubs of Young Democrats.

New York, March 5.—Grover Cleveland has written to Arthur De V.
Storey, president of the Young Men's Democratic club, of the Twenty-first assembly district, the pioneer club in
the movement to organize the young Democrats of this city in a political association to give supplementary
work to the regular Democratic organizations in each assembly district. The organization is a practical application of the advice given by Mr. Cleveland to young men to enter politics. His letter says:

"I know that a body of young Democrats, associated for the purpose of disinterested work and whose object
is to make better known and stimulate devotion to intelligent democracy, will not be long ignored by party managers, and that when once recognized their influence for political good will easily follow. But it is of vital importance that their efforts should be patriotic, untrammelled
and intelligent. As soon as an association of this kind becomes effective and strong, temptations will be put in its way that must be shunned
or resisted, if it would retain its usefulness and influence in the attempt

DE WET WAS HEADED.

Was Moving on Philippolis, but Turned Toward Fauresmith.

London, March 5.—A dispatch from General Kitchener, dated Pretoria,
March 4, said:

"De Wet was moving on Philippo-
lis, but was headed by our troops,
and is now marching on Fauresmith.
"Babington has dug up a Krupp,
a Pompan and some ammunition at Landfontein.

"Sixteen men of the Victoria rifles
have captured 33 Boers and 50 horses
at Sea Cow river.

Hotchkiss near Pietertief.

"Surrenders continue in that district. Over 50 men, with a command
ant, came in March 2."

Just the Opposite.

"When I first met you," cried the woman who had been married for her money, "you occupied a low, mental position, but now, thanks to me, your position"—
"Is a hymeneal one," her husband interrupted.—Exchange.

Two Killed, Being Struck by a Train.

Washington Court House, O., March 5.—Maggie Lowe and Elmer Flint were instantly killed near here by the Baltimore and Ohio westbound passenger, which struck the buggy in which they were riding.

SOME EVENTS IN BRIEF.

pany, of Wheeling, composed of Pittsburg men, will purchase 30,000 acres of coal lands in Belmont county, O.

A meeting of the Cumberland (Md.) city councils will be held to consider a proposition from Andrew Carnegie to build a library there.

Mrs. Priscilla Shoenberger nearly met death in a fire which consumed her home at Warren, O. She was asleep and was awakened by a pet dog.

Seven country merchants near Cumberland, Md., were the recipients of spurious coins, one receiving them successively from another. Now each has brought suit to recover the amount in good money and the magistrate is puzzled.

Conductor Frank Wiseman, of the Mahoning Valley Electric railway, was killed at Youngstown, O. His car jumped the track and turned over.
There were no passengers and the motorman was unhurt.

Few things are so depressing and weakening as a constant cough.
Few things are as discouraging as a cough that will not yield
to treatment. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures coughs when all other medicines fail, because it is more than a cough medicine. The cough is but a symptom. "Discovery" makes
new and pure blood, heals the lacerated
tissues, and gives the body the needed
strength to throw off disease. It cures
the cough by curing the cause of the cough. There is no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, or other narcotic in
the "Discovery."

"I had a terrible cough something over a year ago and could find nothing to stop it, or even to do me a particle of good," writes Mr. J. M. Farr, of Cameron, Screven Co., Ga. "I chanced to
see an advertisement of yours, and forthwith
bought a bottle of your invaluable 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Before I had taken half a bot-

Fighting Now Mostly Confined to Ma-

Manila, March 5.—In an interview
Mr. D. M. Carman, the American
contractor who is charged with aid-

cently released on $10,000 bail, said
that sickness prevented his making an extended statement now. He as-of securing complete vindication. He said:

"Whenever I made a dollar, others

Captain Hand, of the Forty-fifth

Captain McLean, of the Forty-sev-

co-operating with the gunboat Don Juan de Austria, surprised a body of insurgents in camp near the town of Posacao, on the coast of Camarines
province, Luzon, and captured an insurgent commissary general and a quantity of supplies.

Protesio Montejar, leader of the insurgent forces on the island of Panay,
with 7 officers, 45 men and 38 rifles,
surrendered to Captain Barker, of the Twenty-sixth.

Fifteen ex-insurgent leaders and
about 500 followers took the oath of allegiance to the United States at Concepcion, island of Panay, and
about 200 more, it was asserted, promise soon to swear fealty. This may extinguish the rebellion in that district.

About 4,500 insurgent prisoners are held at Manila. The new prison on Grande island, in Subig bay, about 60 miles west of Manila, has been completed, and about a thousand prisoners will be sent there from Manila on the 7th of this month.

The provincial officers of the provinces of Bulacan and Bataan took the oath of office.

Major Hughes reported that Mondgar, an important insurgent commander in the vicinity of Iloilo, island of Panay, has surrendered, with 50 men.
Hundreds are reported to have sworn allegiance to the United States government at various points.

The character of some of the measures which the commissioners were privately considering indicated their expectation of the early establishment
of the general civil government.
Whether President McKinley and Secretary Root were in full accord
with them regarding this important point was not known here, but if the situation continues to develop favorably it is believed that a Philippine government will be created in the course of a few months.

The fact that there have been no
insurgent attacks for months, except isolated instances of firing volleys
into towns by marauders, who most times run away at the top of their speed, the rapid spread of peace
sentiment in all directions, the large number of those who surrender, and
the willingness to take the oath of allegiance on all sides—these and similar considerations are all regarded as pointing to the virtual establishment of peace in the near future.

Commissioner Wright last evening
completed the draft of a bill, which will doubtless pass the commission
before the end of the week, establishing a department of insular constabulary. It creates the office of insular chief of constabulary, the incumbent of which will be appointed by the commission and will have general control as the chief peace officer in the island. He will be authorized to appoint municipal constabulary
chiefs, Americans or natives, for
the various municipalities, as well as assistant chiefs. In each of the four districts of the archipelago there will be a constable for each 1,000 inhabitants of each municipality, and not exceeding one officer for each barrio.
All the police organized under military control, including those in Manila, will be incorporated in the new department. The act will go into effect immediately on adoption.

Indiana Mob Threatens an Ar-

Tipton, Ind., March 5.—The police

It is alleged that Edmonds called at the Ross home last Friday to use the

he conducted himself improperly to-

returned home and was told of what had happened she secured a revolver
and called upon Edmonds, who de-

Toward Fauresmith.

London, March 5.—A dispatch from General Kitchener, dated Pretoria,
March 4, said:

"De Wet was moving on Philippolis,
but was headed by our troops,
and is now marching on Fauresmith.
"Babington has dug up a Krupp,
a Pompon and some ammunition at Landfontein."

"Sixteen men of the Victoria rifles
have captured 33 Boers and 50 horses
at Sea Cow river."

"General Dantnell has captured a Hotchkiss near Pietertief."

"Surrenders continue in that district. Over 50 men, with a command
ant, came in March 2."

Just the Opposite.

"When I first met you," cried the woman who had been married for her money, "you occupied a low, mental position, but now, thanks to me, your position"—
"Is a hymeneal one," her husband interrupted.—Exchange.

Few things are so depressing and weakening as a constant cough.
Few things are as discouraging as a cough that will not yield
to treatment. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures coughs when all other medicines fail, because it is more than a cough medicine. The cough is but a symptom. "Discovery" makes
new and pure blood, heals the lacerated
tissues, and gives the body the needed
strength to throw off disease. It cures
the cough by curing the cause of the cough. There is no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor other narcotic in the "Discovery."

"I had a terrible cough something over a year ago and could find nothing to stop it, or even to do me a particle of good," writes Mr. J. M. Farr, of Cameron, Screven Co., Ga. "I chanced to
see an advertisement of yours, and forthwith
bought a bottle of your invaluable 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Before I had taken half a bottle I was entirely well."

HE USED HIS HOOK AND LINE IN A BIG CLOVER FIELD.

It Puzzled His Comrades to Discover What He Was Angling For, but He Finally Landed the Prize For Which He Was Striving.

Some young men who enlisted during the war with Spain, but never saw any active service, were talking over their days in uniform one night and old, interesting stories of camp life. The young man who had been a hospital steward told this story:

"A month in our camp in Georgia was enough to drive a man to despair, for not only was it hot, but every day increased our belief that the government had no intention of giving us a chance to get into action or to let us go back to our homes. It was a mighty tough predicament for a lot of young men who had left business and everything else in a burst of patriotic enthusiasm and expected to get into a scrap in short order. The men worked every wire they could to get their discharges, but it was at a time when the man with a pull couldn't get any more than the man without a friend. After awhile the boys gave up trying to get their discharges and made up their minds to grin and bear it.

"As a hospital steward I used to hear a good deal about the health of the regiment from the surgeons, and one day I was very much surprised to hear one of them say that he was afraid Cinch of Company C was going to lose his mind. I knew Cinch as a big, good natured fellow, who tried to get a discharge as soon as he learned that we were not going to have a fight. When he failed, he became sullen and moody. The more we watched him the more convinced we became that something was wrong with him. Every time we came around we found him mumbling to himself, and one day a crowd of us found him seated on a stump in the middle of a big clover field, holding in front of him a long pole, attached to which was a piece of cord, on the end of which was a pin bent to resemble a fishhook. He would drop the hook into the long grass and let it stay there for a time. Then he would make a cast and when the hook fell would sit and watch the end of his line intently. Every once in awhile he would jerk the line out of the grass as though he had felt a nibble. Once one of the boys stepped up and said:

"What are you fishing for?"

"He got no answer. All Cinch did was to turn a pair of hollow eyes on him and then resume his fishing. After that a gang used to go out and watch Cinch every afternoon. They would hide in the grass and almost burst with laughter at the seriousness with which the poor fellow would cast his line of wrapping cord and his pin hook and then sit and wait for a bite. Every once in awhile one of the boys would saunter out and say:

"What are you fishing for, Cinch?"

"It got to be the regimental saying, and I suppose that the question, 'What are you fishing for, Cinch?' was thrown at the man from Company C a hundred times a day. By and by the news got to the officers that Cinch was going fast. They heard about his fishing in the fields, and one day the surgeon major went out and witnessed the performance. He went back and reported to the colonel that unless Cinch was discharged at once he would be hopelessly insane. The result was that his condition was telegraphed on to Washington and discharge papers were returned at once.

"The colonel in the goodness of his heart went to look up Cinch and give him the news. He found him sitting on a stump in the field fishing away, while around him sat about 50 of the regiment, one of whom would yell, 'What are you fishing for, Cinch?' every few minutes. The colonel stepped up and touching Cinch on the shoulder said:

"Cinch, we think your health demands that you leave the service, and so we have procured an honorable discharge for you. Here it is, and he handed Cinch the papers.

"Cinch dropped his fishing pole and grabbed the papers. He gave one look at them, and when he saw that they were all right waved them triumphantly over his head and shouted at the top of his voice:

"This is what I was fishing for, dang ye all. This is what I was fishing for, and I got it too. And with that he went dancing over the field, leaving us standing there, the first gleam of the truth creeping into our brains.

"The colonel looked foolish, and by and by we began to sneak away one by one. There was no doubt but what the regimental question, 'What are you fishing for, Cinch?' had been answered and in a most emphatic and surprising fashion. Cinch was as sane as anybody, but when he found he could not get an honorable discharge in one way he tried for it another."—New York Sun.

The Athenian of Today.
 The Athenians dine late the year round and, whenever the weather will permit, in the open air. As the heated season advances the dinner hour is set later and later until in August 9:30 or 10 becomes the common thing. Fancy going to the theater after that! Yet the open air performances are liberally patronized, and they do not begin, of course, until after dinner. The legend "Curtain rises promptly at 9" is a snare and a delusion, as many a foreigner has found, to his extreme annoyance.

The out of door dining and the sky roofed theaters are so typically Greek that they serve as a link between modern and classical times. The old Greek, as everybody knows, was an outdoor man, his house serving as little more than a sleeping place and storeroom. The Athenian of today dines in a garden, on his terrace or in a park. If he is too poor to possess any of these accessories, he sets his table upon the sidewalk. Many of the cheap restaurants appropriate the walks for dining rooms. One is often compelled when taking an evening stroll to dodge in and out among dozens of tables covered with reasonably clean linen and lighted by means of candles, whose flames are protected from the wind by means of glass globes.—Scribner's.

Doctors' "Cat Naps."

The "cat naps" indulged in by the late Dr. William Pepper constituted a standing joke among his intimate friends. He had the faculty of going to sleep at will and waking up when he wished. He would sometimes when under a mental strain keep a roomful of patients waiting while he slept soundly in his private office for three minutes or five minutes, or as long as he wished. Then he would resume his duties, greatly refreshed.

Another prominent physician has a queer habit of napping, although he only takes one a day and that directly after luncheon, which with him is a hearty meal. He repairs to his office and throws himself in a chair at a point where the polished wood floor is not covered by the rug. He holds a bunch of keys between the forefinger and thumb of his right hand, which is allowed to hang loosely over the arm of the chair. Then he dozes off, but it is never more than a doze, for the moment his fingers relax the keys drop to the bare floor, acting as an alarm clock. It is scarcely a nap—just a brief relaxation of the mental and bodily faculties. The doctor calls it his siesta, and if he misses it he says he doesn't feel quite himself for the rest of the day.—Philadelphia Record.

Charley's Aunt.

Mr. Penley, otherwise Charley's Aunt, told the following: "A military man, a friend of Mr. Penley, took his daughter to the stalls and, having a busy and tiring day, went calmly to sleep in his easy seat during the interval between the curtain raiser and 'Charley's Aunt.' The daughter sympathetically allowed him to remain in peace until the curtain went up for the commencement of the play of the evening; then she gently nudged him in the ribs and whispered 'Charley's Aunt!' to remind him of his whereabouts.

"The gentleman still slept on, and his daughter tried again. She gave her father an extra push and murmured, with emphasis: 'Papa, do wake up! 'Charley's Aunt!'"

"This time it was effectual, for the colonel leaped to his feet and cried, 'Bless me, so it is!' and began to shake hands furiously with a demure old lady who happened to be passing along the stalls in front of him on the way to her allotted seat. 'Bless me, so it is! How do you do, madam? And how is Charley?'—London Answers.

On Better Authority.

"You are looking handsome tonight, Miss Flite," Bagster remarked in the pauses of the dance.

"So Mr. Smythe told me a few minutes ago."

Bagster (only remembering that Smythe is his hated rival)—Well, you wouldn't believe anything that chump said, would you?—Philadelphia Times.

ME.

Through many, many summers
 I look, as through a glass,
 And see a world of showers and flowers
 And laughing children pass,
 And in her big blue sunbonnet
 One other little lass.

A lass who watched the swallows
 Skim just beyond her hand
 And where the lilies, blue and sped
 And nests of hang birds tanned
 And felt those birds were fairy folk
 On wings, to fair and land.

In her warm fist she carried,
 Trudging o'er hills and dales,
 In tiny papers laid and weighed
 As if in fairy scales
 The salt that catches bobolinks
 When sprinkled on their tails.

A little lass and wistful,
 Who gazed up the far sky,
 And reached for fairy things and wings
 In vain and wondered why;
 Poor little lass, I wonder still,
 Could she be really I?

ALLAH AND AMERICA.

A Persian Legend About the Creator's Visit to Earth.

In Persia, on a morning after the vermin had been particularly vigorous, I said something caustic about getting back to God's country. An Armenian who had reposed in utter comfort in the same caravansary heard it and smiled. Being an Armenian, he hated the Persians, probably. Incidentally the Persian reciprocates.

Well, this Armenian, rubbing his hands and with his head skewed over on one side, said: "The Persians have a legend for everything. They have a legend for what you said just now. It is this:

"Allah—that is God—once said to his angel, 'I will see this world which I made.'"

"And so Allah and the angel descended invisible in a cloud to the earth, and the first place at which they arrived was France—that is, in Ferehghistan. And there they saw the railroads, and the tramways, and the theaters, and the great picture galleries. And Allah looked in disappointment and said: 'Alas, no! This is not the world which I made. I made none of these things.'"

"So they journeyed to Inglesistan—that is, England—and there were mighty ships in the harbors and huge mills which make all sorts of things and food in plenty. And again Allah said: 'Alas, no! This is not the world which I made.' And everywhere they traveled in the cloud Allah looked upon the land and said, 'No; this is not it.'"

"At last, in despair, the angel led the way to Persia, and Allah sat himself down upon a very high mountain, and, looking far on every side, he saw neither railroads nor tramways nor theaters nor picture galleries nor ships nor mills nor schoolhouses nor plenty to eat.

"And Allah said: 'Yes, at last. This is the world which I made. Not a thing is changed. The people whom I put there have done nothing.'"

"Why didn't he come to America?" I asked.

"Sir," answered the Armenian, "in Persia they had not even heard of America."—Harper's Weekly.

An Old New Jersey Schoolhouse.

The pupil of today would think his opportunities very great if he could see the school equipment of a hundred years ago. A Morris county (N. J.) school of that period is thus described in an old letter of one of its attendants:

The building was constructed of logs, and instead of glass for windows, sheepskins were stretched over the apertures made by sawing off an occasional log. The windows had one merit—they prevented pupils from being interrupted in their study by what was going on outside. The time was regulated by an hourglass, and the pupils drank water from a tumbler made of a cow's horn or from a ground shell.

In spite of these differences of equipment, the schools of a century ago resembled those of today in one notable respect—they had for the most part the same great literary works that are the standards of our language now. The greatest literature is fortunately the possession of many centuries.

Easy Going Japs.

Japanese business methods are in the less important places of a very go as you please description. At Nagasaki the other day a foreigner calling at the branch of one of the chief shipping companies found the whole place deserted. It appeared that, the day being fine, the manager and staff had gone out on a mushroom hunting expedition. Mushroom hunting is a pursuit that appeals to every true Japanese.

The Humorous Primate.

There is a story told of a candidate for the pulpit who was preaching an ex tempore trial sermon before the late Archbishop Tait and Dean Stanley.

In his extreme nervousness he began in a stammering way. "I will divide my congregation into two—the converted and the unconverted."

This proved too much for the primate's sense of humor, and he exclaimed, "I think, sir, as there are only two of us, you had better say which is which."—London Standard.

Employer—Mr. Redink, you got off yesterday afternoon under the plea of being ill. I saw you afterward going to the races, and you didn't appear to be at all unwell.

Clerk—You ought to have seen me after the second race, sir. I was mad enough then.—Tit-Bits.

It Puzzled His Comrades to Discover What He Was Angling For, but He Finally Landed the Prize For Which He Was Striving.

"A month in our camp in Georgia was enough to drive a man to despair, for not only was it hot, but every day increased our belief that the government had no intention of giving us a chance to get into action or to let us go back to our homes. It was a mighty tough predicament for a lot of young men who had left business and everything else in a burst of patriotic enthusiasm and expected to get into a scrap in short order. The men worked every wire they could to get their discharges, but it was at a time when the man with a pull couldn't get any more than the man without a friend. After awhile the boys gave up trying to get their discharges and made up their minds to grin and bear it.

"As a hospital steward I used to hear a good deal about the health of the regiment from the surgeons, and one day I was very much surprised to hear one of them say that he was afraid Cinch of Company C was going to lose his mind. I knew Cinch as a big, good natured fellow, who tried to get a discharge as soon as he learned that we were not going to have a fight. When he failed, he became sullen and moody. The more we watched him the more convinced we became that something was wrong with him. Every time we came around we found him mumbling to himself, and one day a crowd of us found him seated on a stump in the middle of a big clover field, holding in front of him a long pole, attached to which was a piece of cord, on the end of which was a pin bent to resemble a fishhook. He would drop the hook into the long grass and let it stay there for a time. Then he would make a cast and when the hook fell would sit and watch the end of his line intently. Every once in awhile he would jerk the line out of the grass as though he had felt a nibble. Once one of the boys stepped up and said:

"What are you fishing for?" "He got no answer. All Cinch did was to turn a pair of hollow eyes on him and then resume his fishing. After that a gang used to go out and watch Cinch every afternoon. They would hide in the grass and almost burst with laughter at the seriousness with which the poor fellow would cast his line of wrapping cord and his pin hook and then sit and wait for a bite. Every once in awhile one of the boys would saunter out and say:

"What are you fishing for, Cinch?" "It got to be the regimental saying, and I suppose that the question, 'What are you fishing for, Cinch?' was thrown at the man from Company C a hundred times a day. By and by the news got to the officers that Cinch was going fast. They heard about his fishing in the fields, and one day the surgeon major went out and witnessed the performance. He went back and reported to the colonel that unless Cinch was discharged at once he would be hopelessly insane. The result was that his condition was telegraphed on to Washington and discharge papers were returned at once.

"The colonel in the goodness of his heart went to look up Cinch and give him the news. He found him sitting on a stump in the field fishing away, while around him sat about 50 of the regiment, one of whom would yell, 'What are you fishing for, Cinch?' every few minutes. The colonel stepped up and touching Cinch on the shoulder said:

"Cinch, we think your health demands that you leave the service, and so we have procured an honorable discharge for you. Here it is," and he handed Cinch the papers.

"Cinch dropped his fishing pole and grabbed the papers. He gave one look at them, and when he saw that they were all right waved them triumphantly over his head and shouted at the top of his voice:

"This is what I was fishing for, dang ye all. This is what I was fishing for, and I got it too." And with that he went dancing over the field, leaving us standing there, the first gleam of the truth creeping into our brains.

"The colonel looked foolish, and by and by we began to sneak away one by one. There was no doubt but what the regimental question, 'What are you fishing for, Cinch?' had been answered and in a most euphonic and surprising fashion. Cinch was as sane as anybody, but when he found he could not get an honorable discharge in one way he tried for it another."—New York Sun.

The Athenian of Today.
The Athenians dine late the year round and, whenever the weather will permit, in the open air. As the heated season advances the dinner hour is set later and later until in August 9:30 or 10 becomes the common thing. Fancy going to the theater after that! Yet the open air performances are liberally patronized, and they do not begin, of course, until after dinner. The legend "Curtain rises promptly at 9" is a snare and a delusion, as many a foreigner has found, to his extreme annoyance.

The out of door dining and the sky roofed theaters are so typically Greek that they serve as a link between modern and classical times. The old Greek, as everybody knows, was an outdoor man, his house serving as little more than a sleeping place and storeroom. The Athenian of today dines in a garden, on his terrace or in a park. If he is too poor to possess any of these accessories, he sets his table upon the sidewalk. Many of the cheap restaurants appropriate the walks for dining rooms. One is often compelled when taking an evening stroll to dodge in and out among dozens of tables covered with reasonably clean linen and lighted by means of candles, whose flames are protected from the wind by means of glass globes.—Scribner's.

Doctors' "Cat Naps."
The "cat naps" indulged in by the late Dr. William Pepper constituted a standing joke among his intimate friends. He had the faculty of going to sleep at will and waking up when he wished. He would sometimes when under a mental strain keep a roomful of patients waiting while he slept soundly in his private office for three minutes or five minutes, or as long as he wished. Then he would resume his duties, greatly refreshed.

Another prominent physician has a queer habit of napping, although he only takes one a day and that directly after luncheon, which with him is a hearty meal. He repairs to his office and throws himself in a chair at a point where the polished wood floor is not covered by the rug. He holds a bunch of keys between the forefinger and thumb of his right hand, which is allowed to hang loosely over the arm of the chair. Then he dozes off, but it is never more than a doze, for the moment his fingers relax the keys drop to the bare floor, acting as an alarm clock. It is scarcely a nap—just a brief relaxation of the mental and bodily faculties. The doctor calls it his siesta, and if he misses it he says he doesn't feel quite himself for the rest of the day.—Philadelphia Record.

Charley's Aunt.
Mr. Penley, otherwise Charley's Aunt, told the following: "A military man, a friend of Mr. Penley, took his daughter to the stalls and, having a busy and tiring day, went calmly to sleep in his easy seat during the interval between the curtain raiser and 'Charley's Aunt.' The daughter sympathetically allowed him to remain in peace until the curtain went up for the commencement of the play of the evening; then she gently nudged him in the ribs and whispered 'Charley's Aunt!' to remind him of his whereabouts.

"The gentleman still slept on, and his daughter tried again. She gave her father an extra push and murmured, with emphasis: 'Papa, do wake up! 'Charley's Aunt!'"

"This time it was effectual, for the colonel leaped to his feet and cried, 'Bless me, so it is!' and began to shake hands furiously with a demure old lady who happened to be passing along the stalls in front of him on the way to her allotted seat. 'Bless me, so it is! How do you do, madam? And how is Charley?'"—London Answers.

On Better Authority.
"You are looking handsome tonight, Miss Flite," Bagster remarked in the pauses of the dance.

"So Mr. Smythe told me a few minutes ago."

Bagster (only remembering that Smythe is his hated rival)—Well, you wouldn't believe anything that chump said, would you?—Philadelphia Times.

Through many, many summers
I look, as through a glass,
And see a world of showers and flowers
And laughing children pass,
And in her big blue sunbonnet
One other little lass—

A lass who watched the swallows
Skim just beyond her hand
And where the flicker, deer and spied
And nests of hang birds tanned
And felt those birds were fairy folk
On wings to fair land.

In her warm fist she carried,
Trudging o'er hills and dales,
In tiny papers laid and weighed
As if in fairy scales
The salt that catches bobolinks
When sprinkled on their tails.

A little lass and wistful,
Who gazed up the far sky,
And reached for fairy things and wings
In vain and wondered why;
Poor little lass, I wonder still,
Could she be really I?

ALLAH AND AMERICA.

A Persian Legend About the Creator's Visit to Earth.

In Persia, on a morning after the vermin had been particularly vigorous, I said something caustic about getting back to God's country. An Armenian who had reposed in utter comfort in the same caravansary heard it and smiled. Being an Armenian, he hated the Persians, probably. Incidentally the Persian reciprocates.

Well, this Armenian, rubbing his hands and with his head skewed over on one side, said: "The Persians have a legend for everything. They have a legend for what you said just now. It is this:

"Allah—that is God—once said to his angel, 'I will see this world which I made.'"

"And so Allah and the angel descended invisible in a cloud to the earth, and the first place at which they arrived was France—that is, in Fereghistan. And there they saw the railroads, and the tramways, and the theaters, and the great picture galleries. And Allah looked in disappointment and said: 'Alas, no! This is not the world which I made. I made none of these things.'"

"So they journeyed to Inglesistan—that is, England—and there were mighty ships in the harbors and huge mills which make all sorts of things and food in plenty. And again Allah said: 'Alas, no! This is not the world which I made.' And everywhere they traveled in the cloud Allah looked upon the land and said, 'No; this is not it.'"

"At last, in despair, the angel led the way to Persia, and Allah sat himself down upon a very high mountain, and, looking far on every side, he saw neither railroads nor tramways nor theaters nor picture galleries nor ships nor mills nor schoolhouses nor plenty to eat.

"And Allah said: 'Yes, at last. This is the world which I made. Not a thing is changed. The people whom I put there have done nothing.'"

"Why didn't he come to America?" I asked.

"Sir," answered the Armenian, "in Persia they had not even heard of America."—Harper's Weekly.

An Old New Jersey Schoolhouse.

The pupil of today would think his opportunities very great if he could see the school equipment of a hundred years ago. A Morris county (N. J.) school of that period is thus described in an old letter of one of its attendants:

The building was constructed of logs, and instead of glass for windows, sheepskins were stretched over the apertures made by sawing off an occasional log. The windows had one merit—they prevented pupils from being interrupted in their study by what was going on outside. The time was regulated by an hourglass, and the pupils drank water from a tumbler made of a cow's horn or from a ground shell.

In spite of these differences of equipment, the schools of a century ago resembled those of today in one notable respect—they had for the most part the same great literary works that are the standards of our language now. The greatest literature is fortunately the possession of many centuries.

Easy Going Japs.

Japanese business methods are in the less important places of a very go as you please description. At Nagasaki the other day a foreigner calling at the branch of one of the chief shipping companies found the whole place deserted. It appeared that, the day being fine, the manager and staff had gone out on a mushroom hunting expedition. Mushroom hunting is a pursuit that appeals to every true Japanese.

The Humorous Primate.

There is a story told of a candidate for the pulpit who was preaching an ex tempore trial sermon before the late Archbishop Tait and Dean Stanley.

In his extreme nervousness he began in a stammering way, "I will divide my congregation into two—the converted and the unconverted."

This proved too much for the primate's sense of humor, and he exclaimed, "I think, sir, as there are only two of us, you had better say which is which."—London Standard.

Employer—Mr. Redink, you got off yesterday afternoon under the plea of being ill. I saw you afterward going to the races, and you didn't appear to be at all unwell.

Clerk—You ought to have seen me after the second race, sir. I was bad enough then.—Tit-Bits.

A Persian Legend About the Creator's Visit to Earth.

In Persia, on a morning after the vermin had been particularly vigorous, I said something caustic about getting back to God's country. An Armenian who had reposed in utter comfort in the same caravansary heard it and smiled. Being an Armenian, he hated the Persians, probably. Incidentally the Persian reciprocates.

"Allah—that is God—once said to his angel, 'I will see this world which I made.' "And so Allah and the angel descended invisible in a cloud to the earth, and the first place at which they arrived was France—that is, in Fereghistan. And there they saw the railroads, and the tramways, and the theaters, and the great picture galleries. And Allah looked in disappointment and said: 'Alas, no! This is not the world which I made. I made none of these things.'

"So they journeyed to Inglesistan—that is, England—and there were mighty ships in the harbors and huge mills which make all sorts of things and food in plenty. And again Allah said: 'Alas, no! This is not the world which I made.' And everywhere they traveled in the cloud Allah looked upon the land and said, 'No; this is not it.' "At last, in despair, the angel led the way to Persia, and Allah sat himself down upon a very high mountain, and, looking far on every side, he saw neither railroads nor tramways nor theaters nor picture galleries nor ships nor mills nor schoolhouses nor plenty to eat.

"Why didn't he come to America?" I asked.

"Sir," answered the Armenian, "in Persia they had not even heard of America."—Harper's Weekly.

An Old New Jersey Schoolhouse.

The pupil of today would think his opportunities very great if he could see the school equipment of a hundred years ago. A Morris county (N. J.) school of that period is thus described in an old letter of one of its attendants:

The building was constructed of logs, and instead of glass for windows, sheepskins were stretched over the apertures made by sawing off an occasional log. The windows had one merit—they prevented pupils from being interrupted in their study by what was going on outside. The time was regulated by an hourglass, and the pupils drank water from a tumbler made of a cow's horn or from a ground shell.

In spite of these differences of equipment, the schools of a century ago resembled those of today in one notable respect—they had for the most part the same great literary works that are the standards of our language now. The greatest literature is fortunately the possession of many centuries.

Easy Going Japs.

Japanese business methods are in the less important places of a very go as you please description. At Nagasaki the other day a foreigner calling at the branch of one of the chief shipping companies found the whole place deserted. It appeared that, the day being fine, the manager and staff had gone out on a mushroom hunting expedition. Mushroom hunting is a pursuit that appeals to every true Japanese.

The Humorous Primate.

There is a story told of a candidate for the pulpit who was preaching an ex tempore trial sermon before the late Archbishop Tait and Dean Stanley.

In his extreme nervousness he began in a stammering way, "I will divide my congregation into two—the converted and the unconverted."

EVENING NEWS REVIEW.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., TUESDAY, MARCH 5, 1901.

A Great Deal of Inconvenience and Some Suffering Among the Private Consumers—The Pressure Lasted Until Early This Morning, Although the Break Occurred Between 10 and 11 O'clock Last Night—Repairs Being Made This Afternoon.

A bad break occurred in the lines of the Ohio Valley Gas company near Dunford, Pa., between 10 and 11 o'clock last night. As a result a loss to the manufacturers of this city which will reach many thousands of dollars, has been sustained. Private consumers also suffered much inconvenience and annoyance. It was an unusually cold morning for this time of the year, and many families depending wholly upon gas for fuel were compelled to do without fire in kitchens or in any part of the house.

The break occurred about 30 miles from this city, midway between East Liverpool and the field. There is a portion of the line where the break occurred, extending over about a mile that has been in the ground for 16 years. Had the accident occurred at any other point in the more than 60 miles of pipe line the company could have piped around and the supply would have been resumed with but a brief delay.

As soon as the break was discovered at about 10:30 the employees of the company at once started out along the line to locate the spot. They succeeded in accomplishing this at about 3:30 this morning, and no time was lost in starting to dig up the line. The crew from Middletown, Pa., was the first to reach the break. By the time the men who were detailed to repair the break reached the spot the diggers had their part of the work completed, and nothing remained to be done but replace the broken parts. This the company expected to do some time during the afternoon.

A canvass was made among the different potteries, and the loss will be enormous. The French China company is possibly the least affected of any plant in town, they having their own gas. Almost all the workmen are at their benches. The C. C. Thompson plant is also working full. This pottery uses coal throughout.

The Sevres China company are perhaps the largest losers, as a glost kiln was destroyed. The kiln would have been off this morning and the loss will be very heavy. The damage to the ware and the loss of the day's work at this plant will reach over $5,000.

The Knowles, Taylor & Knowles pottery has closed every department, and while it is impossible to tell as yet whether there will be any loss in the kiln department, the inconvenience will cost the concern almost $1,000.

Inquiry was made at the National, Laughlin No. 1 and 2, East End, Globe, Harker, Murphy, D. E. McNicol, East Liverpool, both the Southside plants and the Dresden potteries, eliciting the information that with the exception of a few scattered workmen in each nothing is being done today.

A great deal of inconvenience and some suffering was caused in the schools of the city by reason of the shortage. Two rooms at the Third street building, two at the Grant street and several departments of the Sixth street building were dismissed this morning.

A great many of the private consumers have had coal placed in their homes.

NOON SERVICES.

Those at St. Stephen's Much Appreciated—Tomorrow's Program.

Twenty minutes' noon service in St. Stephen's Episcopal church, corner Fifth and Jackson streets.

During the workmen's recess hour, the above named church throws open wide its doors to the citizens of the city on Wednesday and Friday and invites all to a short Lenten service, commencing at 12:30 and lasting until 12:50 p. m. These services are under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew and consist of the singing of two well known hymns, the creed and special Lenten prayers, followed by a 10 minutes' address by Rev. Edwin Weary, the rector of the parish.

These services are being well received and much appreciated. Wednesday the subject of the rector's stirring address will be "Proofs of Christianity." A most cordial invitation is extended to all who can make it convenient to attend. Those who come once will come again. Services on Wednesday night at 7:30 p. m.

MARRIED BY THE SQUIRE.

The Young Woman Who Caused a Stir at Klondike Pottery Now a Bride.

Henry E. Clemens and Miss Georgia E. Burton were married at 10 o'clock this morning by Justice Rose in his office. The couple left today for their future home in Clyde, O. The bride is the young lady who created such a stir at the Klondike pottery a few days ago by attempting to force Tom Davis to marry her.

Justice Rose on Saturday night performed the marriage ceremony uniting John Clunk and Miss Opal Keeper.

FIVE CAME FORWARD.

The M. E. Revival Continues to Be Most Successful.

Rev. George Spreng, of Wellsville, preached a fine sermon at the First M. E. church last evening. There was a good sized congregation and much interest was manifested. At the close of the services five converts came forward. The revival services will be held this evening at the usual hour.

Married by Squire McLane.

At 9 o'clock last night Justice McLane said the words which united the lives and fortunes of Charles Reed and Miss Lillian Prosser, both of this city.

SEVERELY BURNED BY EXPLODING GAS

Frank Bagley and William Stillwell Had a Very Narrow Escape.

THEY WERE HURLED TEN FEET

Used a Match to Locate a Leak And Suffer in Consequence—Fire Department Was Called—The Blaze Caused $1,000 Damage.

Frank Bagley and William Stillwell were badly burned about the face by a gas explosion at the home of Mr. Bagley on Second street this morning about 8:30 o'clock.

The gas from the Ohio Valley line was off, and as they also have the Bridgewater line in the house, they went to the basement for the purpose of turning the gas into the meter. Unknown to them the pipe had become disconnected, and as they could smell gas Mr. Bagley struck a match to locate the leak. The first match went out and he struck another, when there was a loud report and both gentlemen thrown a distance of 10 feet.

The gas, becoming ignited, was rapidly gaining headway when Mr. Bagley recovered the wrench and, reaching through the flames, turned it off. The fire was extinguished before the arrival of the fire department, which had been called. The explosion shook the whole house and almost blew out the side of the building, tearing it loose from the first to the top of the second story.

Mr. Bagley was badly burned on both hands and face, while Stillwell was only burned about the face. Dr. Norris, who was summoned immediately, dressed the injured men and they are resting as easy as could be expected this afternoon.

The damage done to the building will probably reach $1,000.

Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army throughout the country will celebrate its annual week of prayer and self-denial from March 17 to March 24. The local post is making special preparations to observe it. The offerings taken up during the time will be for heathen and home missions. The fund raised in America last year for this purpose amounted to $58,000, and it hoped to raise a larger amount this year.

MADE NIGHT HIDEOUS.

COLORFUL REVELERS INDULGED IN SHOUTS AND SHOOTING.

A Bunch of Five Landed in the City Bastille, Four of Whom Still Remain.

The people residing in the vicinity of the Williams saw mill were startled last night about 11 o'clock by a series of blood curdling yells that would have done credit to a full blooded Sioux. These were accompanied by a few shots from a revolver.

The police were notified and made a swift advance upon the crowd, capturing the whole bunch. Jessie Alexander was the only female in the crowd, and she was accompanied by Lucky Baldwin, Dave Brown, Paul Lacey and George Southall. This morning Mayor Davidson fined each $5 60. Lucky Baldwin happened to have some friends who paid his fine. The balance of the crowd are still in jail.

IN THE COURTS.

MINOR CASES AND PROBATE MATTERS BEING DISPOSED OF.

Several Cases Settled or Continued. Verdict for Plaintiff in McCord-Potts Case.

Lisbon, March 5.—(Special.)—Common pleas court convened yesterday afternoon. The first case called was that of George McCord against W. S. Potts as administrator of the late Melissa McCord, of Wayne township, who died in January, three years ago. The defendant sold three tracts of land in Wayne township, containing 74 acres by order of the probate court. Judge Boone found that the plaintiff was entitled to a dower interest of $475.25, but only a part of this was paid by the administrator until the upper court ruled on McCord's liability on a note for $300 given to Jane Patterson. The verdict was in favor of the plaintiff.

John E. Evans and wife, whose home in this city was damaged by fire last September, have never been able to satisfactorily adjust their claim on the German Insurance company, of Freeport, Ill. Yesterday they filed an action in court, asking judgment for $182. The company has recognized its liability in the sum of $75 and agreed to pay that amount.

The assignment for the week in court is being rapidly disposed of by settlement and continuance.

The cases of Laura Sharp versus Elmer Thayer et al, Clark Moore versus S. B. Allison, and William Downard versus H. C. Wells have been settled. In the case of Clarence Kountz versus J. A. Crowley et al, an order of continuance was secured.

A. C. McKenzie has filed suit against John A. Noble, of Wellsville, to recover judgment for $120.50 McKenzie holds two judgments aggregating that amount, which were assigned to him by George R. McKay and W. R. Ryan. Judge Firestone, as executor of the estate of Abbie A. Nace, of Lisbon, is made a defendant in the case, as he holds a legacy from the estate to Mrs. Noble.

In the estate of the late Solomon Summers, of West township, Mary N. Summers was appointed administrator, with $5,600 bond.

IN UNIFORM AND IN JAIL

Joseph W. Boughton, of This City, Was Arrested at Wheeling Last Night.

J. R. MARSH MADE CHARGES

Claimed the Young Man Stole His Watch And Overcoat—Boughton Had a Cocked Revolver in His Pocket When Searched By Police.

Joseph W. Boughton was arrested in Wheeling last night on complaint made by J. R. Marsh, of this city. Marsh lost an overcoat and gold watch and claimed to have good reason for thinking Boughton was the thief.

Boughton went to Wheeling Saturday and enlisted at the recruiting station. It is understood that he was not sworn in, but borrowed a soldier's uniform and had been wearing it.

Officers Miller and Selvey found him in the White Front saloon last night and placed him under arrest. He was taken before Justice Fitzpatrick and committed to jail. It is learned that when the officers approached him at the saloon he quickly put both hands in his coat pockets and refused to comply with the policemen's request to take them out. Officer Selvey grasped Boughton's hands and, jerking them from his pockets, searched and found a cocked revolver. The police state that on being questioned why he carried a cocked revolver he replied: "Why, in what other way do you think I would carry a revolver?" Mr. Marsh from whom the property was stolen, accompanied by Officer Gill, of this city, went there yesterday to investigate the case.

Boughton is 21 years of age, and is a warehouseman formerly employed at the Goodwin pottery, while Marsh is a bookkeeper employed by A. Trotter & Son. Boughton belongs to a good family and has never been in trouble before. Marsh and he boarded at Mrs. Welsh's place in Drury lane, and it is presumed that is how the theft was made easy.

Officer Gill and Mr. Marsh arrived in this city at noon, having recovered the overcoat and watch. Boughton is held in Wheeling on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

BOUGHT OUT HIS PARTNER.

R. E. Spencer Succeeds the Firm of Spencer & Bramley.

R. E. Spencer has purchased the interests of William Bramley in the firm of Spencer & Bramley and will now have exclusive control of the photograph gallery formerly owned by this firm.

Mr. Spencer has been engaged in this line of business during the past 16 years and his work has always been highly satisfactory, winning a number of prizes, including the gold medal awarded at the photographers' national convention at Cincinnati a few years ago. He was the promoter of the American Aristotype company, of Jamestown, N. Y., one of the largest concerns of the kind in the country. Although he has been in this city only a comparatively short time his business has already reached large proportions.

The Democrats of Canton have nominated A. O. Slentz for mayor.

Roy Manypenny Painfully Injured By Machinery While at Work.

Roy Manypenny, a mold runner at the National pottery, met with a very painful injury yesterday by accidentally placing his hand between the figger shaft and the disc under the bench. When his hand was placed between the disc and the shaft, the set screw on the shaft tore the flesh to the bone the entire length of his palm.

The boy hastened to Dr. Calhoun's office, where the wound was dressed and partly stitched, but the hand was so badly torn that it was impossible to draw the flesh together. It will be several weeks before the injured member can be used again.

A prominent pottery owner suggests that sliding doors should be placed on the front of the bench between the machinery and the employe, which would afford the employe the protection required by law and also protect the machinery from dust, which is a source of constant injury.

East End Notes.

Rev. N. W. Crowe left on the 4 o'clock train for El Paso.

Jason Lydell is preparing to build a six-room house at Klondike.

The Pennsylvania company is extending the switch at the flint mill.

Samuel Dixon has let the contract for the erection of a seven-room residence on St. George street.

Lewis Brightwell and Miss Ella Ormes were married by Justice McLane at 5 o'clock yesterday evening. The happy pair left for a honeymoon in the west.

Miss Minnie Dobbs, of Helena, and William Procter, of the city proper were united in marriage by the probate judge at Beaver yesterday. The happy couple will reside in this city.

RAN OVER A CHILD.

Hanoverton Youths Drove Fast And Were Arrested for Assault With Intent to Kill.

Lisbon, March 5.—(Special).—Two Hanoverton young men, who only figured on being arraigned for fast driving, are now under arrest, charged with assaulting Mary McDonald, 10 years old, with intent to kill. Sheriff Noragon made the charge. They gave the names of W. F. and George Smith which are evidently fictitious, though their real names are not known here. The sheriff will diligently prosecute.

The two youths drove through this town yesterday afternoon at rapid speed. School had just been dismissed and the child, who was crossing the street, was knocked down by the horse and dragged 10 feet. Her clothing was torn by the horse's hoofs, and the wheels of the buggy passed over the knee.

The drunken parties drove on rapidly, and Deputy Sheriff Noragon, who saw the child hurt, secured a grocery delivery wagon and started in pursuit, capturing them in the west end of town. In the mayor's court they pleaded not guilty and are now in jail. They will have a hearing this afternoon.

THREE LITTLE WAIFS

Deserted By Their Father, They Will Henceforth Be Cared for at the Children's Home.

The children of Mrs. Sarah Bailey, who resides near the Klondike pottery, were this morning taken to the Fairmount Children's home by Mrs. Henderson.

The children are 11, 9 and 7 years old and the father, who, it was reported, ran away in company with his stepdaughter several months ago, has not yet been heard of. The mother is employed at the Klondike pottery and was unable to provide for them.

BUBKEYE BRIEFS.

A Canton-Stuebenville Line.

Canton, March 5.—That the parties who are projecting the trolley line from Canton south through Minerva, Carrollton, Harlem Springs and other towns to Steubenville or Wheeling or some other point on the Ohio river are in earnest is evidenced by the fact that a right of way is being secured south of this city. It is known that the privilege of building through a number of farms adjacent to the city has been secured, the rights of way having already been signed up. This is but a part of the stupendous plan to connect the lake with the Ohio valley.

A Portia from Salem.

Salem, March 5.—Mrs. Maud Fogg, nee Maud Pickett, of this city, wife of Dr. Charles L. Fogg, of Cleveland has sued her husband for divorce and appeared in court to ask for temporary alimony. She argued her own case and the court granted her $7.50 a week alimony, though Fogg wanted to pay only $5.

The ice in the river today was very heavy, but rivermen state that it will run out by tomorrow morning and that the coal boats will be sent out at once.

Treasures of the White House.

There are doubtless in every large city in the country larger and more valuable collections of bric-a-brac and art furniture than that to be found in the private apartments of the executive mansion, but it is a question whether there is in the length and breadth of the land any other half so interesting. Rarity is, of course, a universal characteristic of the artistic gems scattered through the home of the presidents, but better than that is the fact that almost every piece is fraught with memories and associations that make it a prized possession. Of the whole number probably half are the gifts of kings and rulers, tokens of appreciation from friendly nations, and the remainder, having been fashioned especially for the White House, have no duplicates anywhere else in the world.—Woman's Home Companion.

Three at the M. P. Church.

Impressive and interesting revival services at the M. P. church brought out a large congregation last evening. Prof. Evans, of Pittsburg, the blind singer, rendered some most beautiful selections, frequently moving his hearers to tears. Especially impressive was his rendering of "The Old Country Home." Three persons came forward after a sermon by the pastor. Prof. Evans will sing again tonight.

Y. M. C. A. Directors' Meeting.

The directors of the Young Men's Christian Association did not meet last night as had been arranged, but will get together tonight. State Secretary H. A. Landis, of Cleveland, is in the city today, and it is likely something definite will be known as to what the future has in store for the local association at the meeting tonight.

Judgment for Rev. T. I. McRae.

In the court of Justice McCarron this morning judgment was rendered for plaintiff in the case of Rev. T. I. McRae, of Steubenville, versus John Rinehart for $54, claimed due on a promissory note. Judgment was rendered for the full amount, together with interest from October last.

GAS STOCKS FIGURED.

Movements in Them Were Conspicuous on the Stock Exchange on Monday.

New York, March 5.—Business was conducted on the Stock Exchange on Monday with great decorum and sobriety of demeanor, in strong contrast to the wild and feverish activity that prevailed up to a short time ago. The most conspicuous movements of the day were the stocks of the municipal gas companies, especially those of the Greater New York Consolidated Gas was carried up to 201½, with an extreme advance of 5½, while Brooklyn Union Gas rose no less than 11½. Dealings in both stocks were unusually large. The strength was not explained by the new news, but gave rise to rumors of consolidation. People's Gas advanced a point and Lacke Gas ½, influenced by that indefinable sympathy which effects stocks of the same class in a speculative movement. The local traction stocks were also drawn into the movement after some heaviness in Brooklyn Transit and they were rallied from 1½ to 3 points. A number of other high priced industrial specialties showed marked strength, General Electric rising 4, with a reaction of 2, and National Salt preferred gaining 4. There was a very heavy absorption of Amalgamated Copper all day, all offerings being taken with confidence up to par, an extreme rise of 4½. The smelting stocks rallied sharply from an opening break on covering by shorts upon the news of a legal point lost by the opposition to the proposed merger. The tide water soft coal carriers continued in demand on account of the large business done in anticipation of a coming increase in freight rates. There were points of strength all through the railroad list on the almost universal reports of increase in earnings, large traffic and good rates. The grangers, Pacifics and south-westerns, all enjoyed good advances, Rock Island and Union Pacific leading. A number of minor railroads were also in good demand. The steel stocks were higher, but they were without any sensational feature. The publication of the official circular giving the details of the financial arrangement proposed for putting through the consolidation was disregarded as the preliminary gossip had pretty accurately forecasted them.

The continued ease of the money market precludes any acute apprehension on that score, although it is not expected that credit facilities in New York will be expanded in the next few weeks.

United States new 4s coupon declined ½ per cent on the last call.

THE WEATHER.

Ohio—Generally fair today, except snow flurries along the lake; colder, with a cold wave by or during tonight in southern portion; west to northwest winds, brisk to high on the lake. Tomorrow fair, except snow flurries along the northeast lake shore.

Western Pennsylvania—Occasional snows today; colder, with a cold wave in southern portion by or during tonight; west to northwest winds, brisk to high on the lake. Tomorrow occasional snows.

West Virginia—Occasional snows today; colder, with a cold wave by or during tonight; northwest winds. Tomorrow fair, except snow in mountain district.

Not as a Rule.

He had been trying all evening to make a good impression. He had told all his humorous stories and had given one impassioned speech from "Cyrano," but was still unconscious. Thick skinned, he failed to perceive all her efforts to get rid of him. Finally there was a deep silence. Fidgeting, he grew nervous and cast about for something to say.

"Do you wear that sort of collar as a rule?" he stammered foolishly.

Then he fled.—New York Times.

A Case Lincoln Would Not Take.

All clients knew that, with "Old Abe" as their lawyer, they would win their case—if it was fair; if not, that it was a waste of time to take it to him. After listening some time one day to a would be client's statement, with his eyes on the ceiling, he swung suddenly round in his chair and exclaimed:

"Well, you have a pretty good case in technical law, but a pretty bad one in equity and justice. You'll have to get some other fellow to win this case for you. I couldn't do it. All the time, while standing talking to that jury, I'd be thinking, 'Lincoln, you're a liar,' and I believe I should forget myself and say it out loud."—Success.

Little Jack—Oh, mother, I do love cake! It's awful nice.

Mother (reprovingly)—You should not say you "love" cake—say "like." Do not say "awful"—say "very." Do not say "nice"—say "good." And, by the way, the word "oh" should be omitted. Now, my dear, repeat the sentence correctly.

Jack—I like cake. It's very good.

Sharp and intense at times
In the intervals dull and heavy.
Neuralgia is the result of impoverished blood caused by impairment of the nerves—a lack of nerve force.

It is a disease of the nerve centers, and the pains accompanying it are a prayer for better nourishment. They are the danger signals which warn you against a total collapse of the nervous system.

Liniments and all external applications can only give temporary relief. Permanent cure cannot possibly come until the nerve centers are thoroughly revitalized and reinvigorated by Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. The beneficial effects of this great nerve restorative are felt thrilling through the nerve fibres as week by week and month by month the nerve force of the body is restored. Women afflicted with diseases peculiar to their sex are frequently great sufferers from neuralgia. Dr. Chase's Nerve Pills positively cures both these disorders by filling the nervous system with new vigor and life. 50 cents a box at all dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. The genuine has portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase on each package.

LENTEN FOOD.

Some Kinds of Fish Are Scarce And Higher—No White Fish at Present.

Some speculation is being indulged in among those of the East Liverpool people who observe Lent as to what will occur in the fish and egg market between now and Easter.

The increased demand for the commodities has a great deal to do with the prices, but the conditions of the weather in the lake regions play no small part in the condition of the market, so far as it concerns the regulation of prices.

The supply of fresh water fish does not differ materially from that which generally prevails at this season of the year, although cat, black bass, herring and white fish are unusually scarce. The price of herring, the most plentiful and the more common fish, is higher, according to the statement of a local dealer, being a cent and a half more than ever before. This is due in a great measure to the scarcity of this fish, although the fact that A. Booth & Co. have the market cornered at the present time has its influence also.

It is almost impossible to get white fish for the market here, and it will at least be a month before the demand can be supplied.

One of the local dealers was approached yesterday on the subject, and stated that there was no reason for the belief that there would be any scarcity worth mentioning, as he, together with all leading dealers, had contracts with the various firms by the year, and all could get what they wanted of the kinds that were available during the lenten season.

There is no scarcity of eggs at this time, and the prospects are for a goodly supply as Easter approaches. The price is not as high as usual at this time of the year, merchants being able to buy the hen fruit at 19 cents a dozen.

BEYOND DOUBT

These Facts Must Convince Every East Liverpool Reader.

That which follows is the experience of a resident of East Liverpool. Incredulity cannot exist about the statement, because it can readily be investigated.

Mr. Henry Bevington, who resides at the corner of Avondale and Bradshaw avenue, says: "During three years I had attacks of dull, steady aching in the back. When stooping or sitting for some time it would change to a quick pang as I arose to an upright position. My back tired out easily when walking or standing long, and I often had headaches, dizziness, and in the morning great depression. I took medicines, many of them, but found Doan's Kidney Pills, sold at the W. & W. pharmacy, to be more suitable for my complaint than anything that I had ever tried."

RIVER BILL KILLED.

Carter, Now an Ex-Senator, Occupied the Floor for Nearly 13 Consecutive Hours.

Washington, March 5.—One of the most notable occurrences in the history of congressional legislation marked the closing hours of the last session of the senate of the Fifty-sixth congress. Senator Carter, of Alabama, signified his retirement from the senate after six years of brilliant service by taking the river and harbor bill to death. He occupied the floor, constructively, for nearly 13 consecutive hours, although in the aggregate about three hours of that time were devoted to other business.

About 11:40 Sunday night, after the senate conference on the river and harbor bill had reported a disagreement, Senator Carter began his speech. Apparently in a jaded vein, he began his attack upon the measure, denouncing it as vicious and pernicious legislation, unwarranted by conditions and unsound in principle.

Mr. Amson submitted a further disagreement on the sundry civil bill, the item in question being the appropriation for the three expositions. From this the senate recessed and then passed the St. Louis exposition bill. Mr. Amson, who has championed the appropriation for Charleston throughout the session, made a final appeal to the senate to save the Charleston item, but he realized that the Missouri senators were more powerful than he. By a vote of 38 to 10 the senate recessed from the Charleston appropriation, and the bill was passed.

Mr. Carter resumed his speech, finally announcing that it was his intention not to permit the river and harbor bill to become a law, if his strength should hold out, and saying that at that moment he was in excellent physical condition. With the exception of a brief intermission while a quorum was being secured and a recess of half an hour Mr. Carter spoke practically continuously. He yielded the floor only after the ceremony of the induction of Vice President Roosevelt into office had begun.

In retiring as president pro tem of the senate, Mr. Frye, in response to a resolution of thanks for his courtesy and impartiality, delivered a brief but feeling address to the senate.

At the conclusion of the session of the Fifty-sixth congress Vice President Roosevelt was sworn in and immediately called the senate of the Fifty-seventh congress to order. It was a simple but beautiful and impressive ceremony. The new senators were sworn in in groups of four. At the conclusion of this proceeding the senate attended the inauguration of the president on the east front of the capitol. At 1:45 the senate returned to its chamber and adjourned immediately until today.

PRAISE FOR SPEAKER HENDERSON.

Pleasant Incident at Closing Session of the House.

Washington, March 5.—The house closed its session about 11:45 Monday, amid a demonstration from its members following the delivery of an impressive valedictory by Speaker Henderson. For an hour the body had been in the throes of dissolution, with little business to perform. The galleries were almost empty, for there were too many sights and scenes without the building and too many restrictions on admission to permit an overflowing assemblage. Here and there on the desks of the members were great clusters of flowers, paying farewell tribute to their services.

Shortly before the closing hour Mr. Richardson, of Tennessee, the minority leader, presented resolutions testifying the high regard of the house for the able, impartial and dignified manner in which Speaker Henderson had administered the duties of presiding officer. Coming from the minority, there was added significance in the tribute. The resolutions were unanimously adopted by a rising vote. Then the speaker, in slow and impressive tones, delivered his closing words to the house, thanking the members for their co-operation through a busy and eventful congress. He concluded and announced the sessions of the house for the Fifty-sixth congress adjourned.

BRITISH BANKRUPTS.

PRIVILEGES WHICH ARE ACCORDED BY LAW TO PEERS.

Some English Legal Decisions as to What Constitute the Necessaries of Life—They Widely Differ From Duke to Ordinary Mortal.

Recent bankruptcy cases in London have brought up various legal decisions which have been reached in England on the subject of what are necessities of life for men of various stations and degrees who are not in command of their own incomes.

A duke, for instance, or even a marquis or an earl is entitled by law to one bottle of champagne a day if his trustees hold the money to pay for it. In the case of the former Duke of Manchester the law decided that seven bottles of champagne a week are necessary to a duke whose affairs may be in the hands of trustees and that if he had not the control of his own income he must be allowed to have a carriage with one horse, a riding horse as well, one manservant and a house with a rent of not less than £250 a year; otherwise he must be allowed to have the use of £2,000 a year, while the rest might be allowed to accumulate for the good of the estate till the trustee period expired.

A viscount or a baron is allowed by law to describe as necessities things which smaller fry might struggle along without. But a viscount's income—provided there is anybody to pay it—is fixed at £1,500 a year and a baron's at £1,000. He is, supposing any guardians have a few thousands a year to pay out to him according to discretion, only entitled to claret as a beverage, for his yearly wine allowance only runs to £60, which would not keep him in champagne unless he drank it very seldom. The duke's wine bill may run to £150.

The viscount must have a carriage, but it may be attached for debt, and he cannot force his guardians to give him a horse. Of course, if he has no guardians, nor any income, either, he must do as other people and go without, but these things are considered necessary to peers. A manservant is allowed to a viscount or baron, but the house rent need not exceed £200, nor can it be less than £150.

A doctor is better off than a viscount in one way—his carriage cannot be seized in most cases, nor can the expenses of it be reckoned in his income tax returns. In selling up a doctor for debt he may retain one horse, and two of his carpets are considered as necessities to his business—in the hall and consulting room—and reckoned at £20 apiece. He may have surgical instruments and medical appliances to the value of £1,000, and these cannot be seized.

An ordinary man can retain nothing but his clothes, his hairbrushes and a few stern necessities of that kind. No wine is allowed to a doctor, but if a student in the hands of trustees, he can demand a couple of servants and a house rent of £60 per year.

The son of a well to do merchant or tradesman making about £1,000 a year can demand neither wine nor horses nor servants, but the law may allow him a rent of £50 and another £150 or £200 to keep himself on, supposing he is in the hands of guardians, whether under or over age. As to debt, he can be sold up, bar his personal necessities and his clothes, though he is not generally allowed to keep more than six suits of the latter.

If he has more a judge might allow them to be taken with the other chattels, and he can be left without a chair to sit on or a spoon to eat with. Jewelry, if he has any, can be taken; but if he has, say, two pairs of valuable sleeve links he can keep only one of them. In the same way he may keep a dress suit, but if he has two an order may be made to sell up one of them.

A lawyer can have 500 books on legal subjects or in some way pertaining to law, and these have to be left alone by the brokers. There are extreme cases in which everything, even necessities, may be taken, but the lawyer may also demand exemption even in such cases for his wigs, or at least two of them, and two gowns. As a student in the hands of guardians he can make them pay him £80 a year for chambers, and they must pay his examination and other fees.

A clergyman or minister of any kind is worst off of all and can keep very little for himself. He can make his guardians come down with the fees his profession needs, however, and if he lives in the country as a curate and has some trustees and also a guardian he can make them supply him with a gardener.

Why She Wept.

Among the Mainloves, descendants of the Spartans, thieving is considered a very honorable employment. An English traveler, being entertained at the house of one of the mountaineers, took some silver articles from a packing case he had with him to eat his dinner with. At the sight of such costliness an old woman began to cry, the Englishman having asked what affected her so much:

"Alas, my good sir," she replied, "I weep because my son is not here to rob you of those beautiful things!"

No Gentleman.

"Mame," said the girl in the red shirt waist and plaid skirt, "ain't he just a prince?"

"Oh, rats!" replied her lady friend, with dignity. "Any one kin see that he wears a celloid collar, and them trousers is $3 ones."—Philadelphia North American.

ONLY AN OLD SONG.

But It Illustrated the Curiosity of a New York Crowd.

It was only a song, and an old one at that, but it came near causing a block on the Broadway surface line the other day. The singer was as black as the coal in the cart he was driving, but that fact cast no shadow on his exuberant spirits. As he swung his chariot from Broadway into Cortlandt street he raised his voice. Then the trouble began.

When the notes of "Old Black Joe" rang out high and clear above the din of traffic, expressions of blank amazement overspread the faces of the hurrying pedestrians who thronged the sidewalks. Necks were craned in a vain search for the location of some newly patented phonograph. Crowds collected and gazed vacantly upon the air, as if they expected to locate the sound in some office window; teams were drawn up until a long line of trucks extended up Cortlandt street to Broadway, barring access to the street, that their drivers might ascertain the cause of the crowd's curiosity. Suddenly a newsboy cried:

"Ah, rubber! Dontcher see it's only de nigger a-singin'?"

The crowd laughed. The darky, now lustily holding forth on "The Suwannee River," turned sharply into Church street, totally oblivious to the excitement he had caused. The crowd then dispersed, and the long line of wagons began to move once more.

"Well," exclaimed a Jerseyman on his way to the ferry, "New Yorkers call country people curious, but"—He shrugged his shoulders and passed on.—New York Mail and Express.

The Squeaking Shoe No More.

"Squeaking shoes," said a dealer, "are no more, though of course you haven't noticed it. Stop a minute, though, and think. Isn't it true that for years you haven't come across a squeaking shoe? The thing that caused the trouble was a loose piece of leather in the sole. This, as you walked, worked somewhat like a bellows or an accordion, and great was the sound thereof. All shoes are now sewed—many of them used to be pegged—and sewing does away with any loose pieces of leather in the sole and, therefore, with the squeak as well. I don't believe that if you searched a week you would be able to find a squeaking shoe in Philadelphia."—Philadelphia Press

WORDS OF A STATESMAN.

The inaugural address of President McKinley, published in full in these columns yesterday, is a state paper of vigor, strength and eloquence, the utterances of a patriot and a statesman. Nothing more forceful has ever been spoken by any occupant of the executive chair. A gem of finished oratory, it deserves a place in American archives alongside the farewell address of Washington and the Gettysburg address of Lincoln. Like those immortal declarations, every word expresses a truth and an honest conviction. Witness these extracts:

"The prophets of evil were not the builders of the republic, nor in its crises since have they served or saved it. The faith of the fathers was a mighty force in its creation, and the faith of their descendants has wrought its progress and furnished its defenders. The American people, entrenched in freedom at home, take their love for it with them wherever they go, and they reject as mistaken and unworthy the doctrine that we lose our own liberties by securing the enduring foundations of liberty to others. Our institutions will not deteriorate by extension and our sense of justice will not abate under tropic suns in distant seas. As heretofore, so hereafter, will the nation demonstrate its fitness to administer any new estate which events devolve upon it, and in the fear of God will take occasion by the hand and make the bounds of freedom wider yet."

The address should be read by every American. It will arouse his patriotism and his pride in the nation. And it cannot fail to shed new luster upon the name of McKinley.

EXTENSION OF TROLLEY LINES.

If half the trolley lines that are projected and promised in eastern Ohio are built during the coming summer, many towns, both large and small, will experience a boom. For it is a fact which no one will question who has given the matter attention that the electric railway is a powerful agent in the upbuilding of any sort of town. And in communities as populous as Columbiana and adjacent counties, the demand for inter-town rapid transit is one that must be met. That there is profit in the business is shown by the success of the street railways almost everywhere where they are in operation, and also by the eagerness and the competition of shrewd financiers to secure franchises. The trolley car has its faults, but it is a great public convenience, and no public-spirited and progressive community is likely to shut it out, provided the railway promoters are willing to make reasonable terms for valuable franchises.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM.

The statement, attributed to Prof. Shaler, of Harvard university, that there is likely to be an overproduction of gold by the end of the next thirty years, while it may excite hope of distant success in the breasts of the Bryanites, is not likely to cause any general apprehension. Thirty years is a long time to wait, but the silver people have learned to wait. The rest of us see no visions of more shining wealth than we can manage to dispose of. Analyzed closely, the Shaler statement tells nothing new, except as to the predicted overproduction, and there is room for difference of opinion on that point. Everybody knows that gold is one of the most widely distributed minerals. There is scarcely any part of the earth where it has not been discovered, but usually there is too much dirt mixed with it to pay for extracting the precious metal. The fact that gold has been used in the arts and as a circulating medium since the dawn of civilization and even before, and the world has never found too much for its use, rather militates against the Harvard professor's alleged theory of a probable surplus within the present century. If the silver men can find any comfort in the prediction they are welcome to it. Nobody else will become unduly exercised over it.

The river and harbor bill, in which Ohio valley people were deeply interested, was talked to death in the senate by that eminent Democratic statesman, Carter, of Montana, who got his senate seat, not because he was wanted there, but because he wanted to be there and paid his way thither.

John D. Rockefeller said in a recent speech that the things most to be sought after in life were character, friendship, health and success. One would have thought that the last would be first, in his opinion.

There is now talk in London of making military service compulsory. The Boers appear to be the only people who are not weary of the South African war.

Some of the Pittsburg people seemed to think their "ripper" battle would end when they got the charter bill passed. It looks now as if the fighting had just begun.

Just as East Liverpool was congratulating itself on the approach of spring, winter returned as vigorous as when it was younger.

West Virginia also had an inauguration yesterday, but that at Washington completely overshadowed it.

Lentz and Pettigrew are now back numbers.

ABOUT THE POTTERIES.

Several of the boys at the East End plant suggest that if that lady at Klondike who wants a husband will call, they can furnish the man.

Salem business men regard the prospects for a new pottery as rosy. A preliminary contract has been signed with the projectors and Salem has 15 days to raise the required bonus.

Guarding Her Teeth.

It is easy to misunderstand and easy to be misunderstood, and sometimes, happily, it is easy to give and to accept an explanation.

"I did think I would never come to see you again," said a cousin of the prominent society woman who had come to the country to visit her and was about to start homeward. "It's kind of you to ask me, of course, but I remember that when I was at your house in the city, two years ago, you did not seem glad to see me. You were kind and hospitable, of course, but I remember you did not smile once during the entire two weeks of my stay."

To her astonishment, her city cousin burst into a fit of laughter.

"Maria," she said, "just before you came I had the misfortune to break the porcelain 'crown' from one of my new front teeth, and as my dentist was out of town on his vacation I had to wait for his return. I didn't dare to smile when any one was looking at me, for fear of showing the ghastly metallic 'back' to which the porcelain had been attached. It was a strain, Maria, but I was equal to it, and I did not want to have to explain."

And her smile, now without a mechanical flaw, re-enforced the renewed invitation.—Youth's Companion.

Russell and the Solicitor.

It is said that once when the late Lord Russell, then Sir Charles, was on circuit, he became so indignant with every one in general and his solicitor client in particular that he seized his large and heavy brief and smote the solicitor on the head with it. The solicitor indignantly collected his papers and hurried out of court, murmuring that he would never brief Sir Charles again.

Some time afterward a shipping magnate came to the same solicitor with a big case. "Brief Russell," he said. The solicitor said he was sorry, but it was impossible, as Russell had never apologized. "Then give me my papers," said the shipowner, "and I'll go to some one who will."

Eventually the unhappy man of law, not wishing to lose his best client, had to apologize to Sir Charles Russell for leaving the court when assaulted.—Pearson's Weekly.

Very Like a Scandal.

"This dollar that I hold in my hand," he said, "reminds me of a deep, dark, scandalous secret."

"Oh, George!" his wife exclaimed, dropping her hands in her lap and bending forward eagerly, "tell me about it."

"Yes," he went on, "it reminds me of a secret of that kind, because it's so hard to keep."

And then she refused to speak to him for three hours.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Spring Vacation Decided On—Miss Emma Kinney Appointed to the Grant Street Vacancy.

The board of education had a busy session last evening. There were present President Vodrey, Clerk Hill and Members Taggart, Murphy and Wells.

The following bills were ordered paid:

|---|---------|
| Ceramic City Light Co..... | $ 8 50 |
| Arbuthnot & Bro., fitting | 9 00 |
| Watson & Sloan, supplies.... | 55 |
| Ohio Valley Gas Co..... | 295 35 |
| Ft. Pitt Gas Co..... | 114 00 |
| Union Typewriter Co..... | 85 |
| Robert Hall, lumber | 6 25 |
| American Book Co..... | 33 67 |
| R. E. Rayman, expenses to Chicago | 31 55 |

A bill received from the Barnhart company, claiming a small amount for a desk, was referred to the superintendent and janitor.

The Kinsey Plumbing company presented a bill for gas fitting at the Grant street building, but it was not paid.

The clerk was instructed to look up the account of Frank Crook for $93 62, claimed due for supplies, as some of the members thought it had already been paid.

A. W. Corns presented a bill for $22 40, as a balance for filters supplied to the various buildings. It was reported that the articles in use at the East End and the Third street building were not satisfactory. The bill was not paid.

Clerk Hill stated he had a bill from the Smith-Premier Typewriter company, claiming $2 50 for a cover. The clerk was instructed to notify the company that the account was not correct.

A communication from the Peck-Williamson company objected to paying for a quantity of iron bars supplied by a local contractor and also against paying a plumbing bill charged to them. The board held that neither of the sub-contracts had been let by it. Clerk Hill and Architect Scott will communicate with the concern.

Superintendent Rayman reported having received the resignation of Miss Lena Coventry, who had been teaching at the Grant street building. The resignation was accepted. Superintendent Rayman recommended Miss Emma Kinney for the vacancy at a salary of $30 per month and she was appointed.

The question of a spring vacation was brought up, and after some discussion it was decided to have one week of vacation, to commence the 1st of April. This is the first time the custom has been observed here for many years.

The auditing committee made its report, showing the clerk's books to be in first-class condition, and commending him upon a number of improved methods.

The committee recommended that the audit be made each year. The report was ordered spread upon the minutes, after which the meeting adjourned.

THEIR SCHEME FRUSTRATED.

Two Girls Who Expected to Leave the City And Did Not.

Two young girls of this city thought the sights here were getting a little old and they would depart for a strange land. They went to the passenger station Saturday evening, and after changing their clothes for some they had brought from home, purchased tickets for Beaver. When the 8 o'clock train arrived they boarded it and held a newspaper over the window so as to keep them from being seen.

In some manner the mother of one of the girls learned of their intentions, and going to the passenger station she was told they were on the train. The mother got on the train and finding the girls, compelled them to get off and go home.

The Shipmaster's Cow.

A certain farmer is telling mean things about a Rockland shipmaster. "The shipmaster," he says, "bought a cow of a man down my way; good critter—not in the matter with her. But it seems the captain's wife one day thought the milk tasted funny and suggested that p'raps she'd been eatin spruce boughs; said the milk tasted like spruce. And what does he do but go out in the pasture to watch the cow, to see what she did eat. The cow was layin down, chewin her cud, and he went erlong and run his finger in her mouth to see what she was eatin. Then he was mad. He put a rope on the cow and started off with her. He met a neighbor, who says, 'Where are you goin with the cow?' 'Goin to take her back to the feller that sold her to me. He's cheated me, and I won't stand it.'

"Of course, the man told him that it was all nonsense—that cows never had no upper teeth. But he didn't believe a word of it and went on and had a tar-nal row with the man that sold him the cow. Guess he was never satisfied about it or knew what a darned fool he was makin of himself."—Rockland (Me.) Opinion.

Generous Great Britain.

Britain's "earth hunger" is a common sneer on the continent, but look at what we have given away without the least reason!

We took the Ionian Islands in 1809 and handed them over to Greece for nothing about 50 years afterward. Corsica shows George III as its king, but we abandoned it three years later, and the French naturally grabbed it. Tangier came to us by the marriage of Charles II. We abandoned it at the end of 22 years.

We took Cuba in 1762 and handed it back to the Spaniards, after holding it for 10 months. We took the Philippines and returned them to the same country for £800,000—which was never paid.

Here is a short list of other places which we once held and gave up without compulsion; Minorca, Sicily, Sardinia, Buenos Ayres, Montevideo, Java, Pondicherry, Celebes, Moluccas, Elba and about 50 other places.

We took Cape Colony in 1795, but gave it up again to the Dutch. In 1806 we took it again—and kept it.—London Standard.

Her Opinion of Compliments.

"No," said Miss Cayenne, "I don't care for people who continually pay compliments."

"But it shows an amiable disposition."

"Perhaps, but the habit reminds me that some people are willing to pay only what costs them nothing and what they don't really owe."—Washington Star.

The Lieutenant's Brother.

It may not be generally known that it is considered a serious offense for a German soldier, no matter what may be his rank, to appear in public except in uniform, even though he be on furlough. The army regulations strictly enjoin that he must always wear his uniform.

A certain Lieutenant Schmidt, who was engaged in some lively adventure or other, dressed up as a civilian and was having altogether an enjoyable time until, on turning a corner, he unexpectedly met his colonel.

The lieutenant did not, however, lose his presence of mind. He pretended that he had never seen his colonel before and in a changed voice asked:

The colonel quietly gave the desired information, and Lieutenant Schmidt, congratulating himself on his lucky escape, hurried home and put on his uniform with all possible speed.

He thought, of course, that he had taken in his superior officer, but such an idea was rudely dispelled when on the next day he met his colonel, and the latter said:

A BRILLIANT CLIMAX

Inaugural Day Festivities at the Capital Close With a Splendid Ball.

GREAT SPECTACULAR EVENT

In This Respect Wholly Unparalleled. Mrs. McKinley Not Able to Participate—President McKinley and Party Occupied the Embowered Box

Washington, March 5.—The culminating event of the inaugural festivities was the inaugural ball, held last night in the vast auditorium of the pension office. As a spectacular event it was unparalleled in the history of inaugural balls, in the sumptuousness of arrangement, in the bewildering splendor of decorations and of marvelous electrical effects, and of the countless throng taking part in the spectacle.

When the doors of the great structure were thrown open about 8 o'clock an eager crowd besieged every entrance, and lines of carriages stretched into the surrounding streets and avenues. Platoons of police officers, mounted and unmounted, guarded the outer entrances, keeping back the rush of curious spectators and bringing order out of the tangle of carriages. Through the long arched entrances, hung with bunting and vines, passed the merry, pleasure-seeking throng, the women in luxurious gowns, with the flash of jewels in their hair and at their throats. Soon the vast interior of the building began to take on life and animation.

The presidential party arrived about 10:15 o'clock. They were preceded by a glittering array of officers in full uniform and were escorted to the private offices of Commissioner Evans, which had been lavishly decorated. The president bowed and smiled as he passed through the throng. Senator and Mrs. Hanna, Lieutenant General and Mrs. Miles, several of the justices of the supreme court, with their wives, and a number of the cabinet circle joined the party upstairs. The crowds on the main floor had been pushed back to make room for the grand march, and the band was ready to break into the opening strains of the march from Tannhauser. But word came that Mrs. McKinley was indisposed and that the president would remain by her side. The march consequently was abandoned. The band struck up Strauss' "Blue Danube," and the first regret of the assemblage at missing the grand march, with the president and the first lady of the land at its head, gave way before the whirl of gaiety on the ball room floor. Vice President and Mrs. Roosevelt arrived about the time the president came in. After paying their respects to the president and holding an informal levee amid the groups of governors, officers, senators and distinguished officials, the vice president and his wife proceeded to the ball room floor.

Now the scene was at its height. Under the golden canopy and the dazzling filigree of lights moved the shifting throngs—women in exquisite toilets, dowagers and matrons in rare old laces, buds and debutantes in dainty Paris creations. With them were officials distinguished in every branch of public life, grave supreme court justices, governors of states surrounded by their brilliantly uniformed staffs and aides, ambassadors and ministers in gold lace and decorations, the highest ranking officers of the army, navy and marine corps, senators and representatives, officers of Troop A, the president's crack organization, in uniforms of Austrian Hussars. As the orchestra and band alternated, this ever moving throng joined in promenade and dance, making a vast kaleidoscopic picture.

escort distinguished guests to the president.

Mrs. McKinley's indisposition was of brief duration and she was soon able to join the president and the brilliant assemblage in an embowered box overlooking the gay throngs below. The president occupied a seat at the right near the rail, with Mrs. McKinley at his side. To their left sat Vice President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Near the vice president was Governor Odell of New York, while grouped further back were Major General Corbin, Admirals Bradford and Crowninshield, Secretary Root, Justices Harlan and Gray, Senator Lodge, Governor Stone of Pennsylvania, and many ladies of the cabinet, army, navy and official set.

The presidential party and Vice President and Mrs. Roosevelt left the ball about 12:15 o'clock. Before leaving they partook of a lunch, with a large number of invited guests, in the private dining room. The festivities went on unabated until a late hour.

Lane's Car Carried Ferrell.

Panhandle trainmen have noted the peculiar fact that just about the same time in the night that Rosslyn Ferrell killed Express Messenger Lane he was electrocuted. At the moment the current was turned on which ended Ferrell's career train No. 8, on which the murder was committed, was speeding along over the same piece of track that it occupied on the night the crime happened. Another peculiar thing noted is the report that the same express car on which Lane was working was used to carry the remains of Ferrell to Steubenville.

Not a Joke With Jones.

William Jones, the Wellsville boss roller, recovered on Saturday evening the envelope containing the pay of himself and crew, which he thought he lost on the streets. The envelope contained about $250. A friend abstracted it from Jones' pocket as a joke. Jones couldn't see the humor in it.

NOT FOR A CHANGE

Dr. DeWitt Does Not Favor a Revision of the Creed Just Now.

An Earnest And United Effort for the Salvation of the World Should Be Made Instead of Indulging in Doctrinal Controversies.

New York, March 5.—"Proposed Creedal Changes" was the topic of discourse at the March meeting of the Presbyterian union, which was held last night at the Hotel Savoy. The speakers were Rev. Dr. John De Witt, professor of church history at Princeton seminary; Rev. Dr. George Black Stewart, president and professor of practical theology, Auburn seminary, and Dr. Herrick Johnson, professor of sacred rhetoric and pastoral theology at the McCormick seminary, Chicago.

Rev. Dr. De Witt's topic was "The established standards of the Presbyterian church should in this crisis be reaffirmed and left unchanged." He said in part:

"Were the present period one of profound and enthusiastic faith in positive religious truths, which, after deep study and long debate, had come to distinct expression in the general consciousness of the church, then it would be wrong and useless to try to prevent what had already expressed itself in the church's consciousness, from being formulated in the church's symbols."

The speaker made a veiled reference to a recent work by Rev. Henry Vandyke, formerly pastor of the Brick church.

"And it is the gospel for an age of doubt which one of our own clergymen eloquently and with literary grace commends to students about to begin their ministry. I am not criticizing either our theological seminaries or Dr. Vandyke. I am only trying to set forth the condition which confronts us. The present crisis is the farthest removed from those out of which issued the vital and abiding creeds of the church of God. The age is one of doubt, not one of faith."

On this ground, especially, the speaker pleaded for a cessation of all disputes on the creed question and earnest and united effort for the salvation of the world.

The next speaker was Rev. Dr. George Black Stewart, who spoke on "Entirely new standards of belief are demanded at the present time."

Rev. Herrick Johnson followed. He spoke on the following proposition: "While it would be inadvisable to discard the established standards of the Presbyterian church, the time has come when they should be modernized in form and modified in certain statements."

FIVE KILLED IN A MINE.

In Addition to the Dead Two Were Seriously Injured In Missouri Zinc Shaft.

Joplin, Mo., March 5.—Five men were killed and two others seriously injured in a mine accident at the Engleside zinc mine in Center Valley, eight miles east of Joplin.

The dead are: Hale Foster, George Wilson, William Buzzard, Ed Stotard and Fitz Morris.

The injured are William Daniels and John Burton.

The seven men were in the ground cutting a drift from the main shaft. The five men killed were confined in the drift and the others were in the main shaft. Two shots had been fired, but the whole charge failed to explode. A whole box of powder was sent down into the mine. One of the men accidentally discharged an unexploded shot and the box of powder was set on fire, resulting in terrible destruction. A man at the surface entrance of the mine was thrown 30 feet in the air. Center Valley is an isolated place, and further details are not yet obtainable.

Santa Claus is unknown in Spain. The three Magi are supposed to be the children's gift bringers.

Fighting Now Mostly Confined to Marauding Bands Which Flee When Attacked—Prospect of Early Establishment of Civil Government.

Manila, March 5.—In an interview Mr. D. M. Carman, the American contractor who is charged with aiding the insurgents and who was recently released on $10,000 bail, said that sickness prevented his making an extended statement now. He asserted that he had done nothing unauthorized, and that he was hopeful of securing complete vindication. He said:

"Whenever I made a dollar, others made money, too."

Captain Hand, of the Forty-fifth United States volunteer infantry, and Captain McLean, of the Forty-seventh United States volunteer infantry, co-operating with the gunboat Don Juan de Austria, surprised a body of insurgents in camp near the town of Posacao, on the coast of Camarines province, Luzon, and captured an insurgent commissary general and a quantity of supplies.

Protesio Montejar, leader of the insurgent forces on the island of Panay, with 7 officers, 45 men and 38 rifles, surrendered to Captain Barker, of the Twenty-sixth.

Fifteen ex-insurgent leaders and about 500 followers took the oath of allegiance to the United States at Concepcion, island of Panay, and about 200 more, it was asserted, promise soon to swear fealty. This may extinguish the rebellion in that district.

About 4,500 insurgent prisoners are held at Manila. The new prison on Grande island, in Subig bay, about 60 miles west of Manila, has been completed, and about a thousand prisoners will be sent there from Manila on the 7th of this month.

The provincial officers of the provinces of Bulacan and Bataan took the oath of office.

Major Hughes reported that Mondigar, an important insurgent commander in the vicinity of Iloilo, island of Panay, has surrendered, with 50 men. Hundreds are reported to have sworn allegiance to the United States government at various points.

The character of some of the measures which the commissioners were privately considering indicated their expectation of the early establishment of the general civil government. Whether President McKinley and Secretary Root were in full accord with them regarding this important point was not known here, but if the situation continues to develop favorably it is believed that a Philippine government will be created in the course of a few months.

The fact that there have been no insurgent attacks for months, except isolated instances of firing volleys into towns by marauders, who most times run away at the top of their speed, the rapid spread of peace sentiment in all directions, the large number of those who surrender, and the willingness to take the oath of allegiance on all sides—these and similar considerations are all regarded as pointing to the virtual establishment of peace in the near future.

Commissioner Wright last evening completed the draft of a bill, which will doubtless pass the commission before the end of the week, establishing a department of insular constabulary. It creates the office of insular chief of constabulary, the incumbent of which will be appointed by the commission and will have general control as the chief peace officer in the island. He will be authorized to appoint municipal constabulary chiefs, Americans or natives, for the various municipalities, as well as assistant chiefs. In each of the four districts of the archipelago there will be a constable for each 1,000 inhabitants of each municipality, and not exceeding one officer for each barrio. All the police organized under military control, including those in Manila, will be incorporated in the new department. The act will go into effect immediately on adoption.

SABBATH VIOLATED.

Congress Condemned For Meeting Last Sunday—Action by Ministers and Elders.

Danville, Pa., March 5.—At a meeting of ministers and elders of Northumberland Presbyterian church, held here, the following resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote:

"The presbytery of Northumberland has learned with distress and alarm of the session of the national congress for the transaction of ordinary business held on the Sabbath day, March 3. This needless disregard of the Lord's day is at once a violation of the civil law, an affront to the Christian conscience of the country, an evil example to lawbreakers in general, a wicked departure from the reverent custom of the father of the republic, and an offense to Almighty God, the gracious giver of the day of rest. It is against the general welfare, deserves universal reprobation, and, we earnestly hope, may not prove a precedent for future meetings of our national legislature."

MILITIA CALLED OUT.

Indiana Mob Threatens an Arrest—Arrested on a Serious Charge.

Tipton, Ind., March 5.—The police discovered that a mob had been quietly organized to lynch H. H. Edmonds, a well-known citizen, aged 55 years. He was lodged in jail charged with taking improper liberties with the 11-year-old daughter of W. H. Ross, a prominent citizen. The sheriff communicated by wire with Governor Durbine, and as a result the latter ordered the local militia company out to guard the prisoner.

It is alleged that Edmonds called at the Ross home last Friday to use the telephone, and, finding the girl alone, he conducted himself improperly toward her. When the child's mother returned home and was told of what had happened she secured a revolver and called upon Edmonds, who denied the whole story. The mother then attempted to draw the revolver, which was concealed in her apron, but it dropped to the floor as he hastened away.

The facts did not come to light until Monday. Edmonds was arrested.

Mother of Mrs. Maybrick Talks of Her Daughter's Prospects.

London, March 5.—Baroness de Roques, who arrived in London last evening to make her quarterly visit to her daughter, Mrs. Florence Maybrick, at Aylesbury prison, said to a representative of the Associated Press:

"I have no intention to visit the United States embassy or to contribute in any way to the agitation for my daughter's release at this time. Some unwarranted statements as have recently been made can only injure the cause I seek to serve. "I have had no communication with any officials of the government or with the United States embassy. I do not think that the persistent policy of a decade will be immediately reversed, but I sincerely hope that dear, kind Queen Alexandra will think of our sufferings and plead for us with the king.

"I shall return immediately to Paris, and I hope that, for the present, no inconsiderate friend will do anything to mar the hopes we entertain for the future."

Governor White Inaugurated.

Charleston, W. Va., March 5.—State officers were inaugurated at the capitol. Speeches were made by the outgoing Governor Atkinson and the incoming Governor White. The oath of office was administered by Presiding Judge Brannon, of the supreme court.

Shot by a Man Who Suicided.

Chicago, March 5.—Charles Merrill, a tea merchant, was shot in the back of the head and severely injured here by John Correa, a bookkeeper, who then committed suicide. The shooting was said to have been caused by a dispute over the firm's books.

B. & O's PURCHASE.

Saloman Say, Control Co., L. & W. Has Been Secured.

New York, March 5.—William Saloman, chairman of the board of directors of the Baltimore and Ohio Railway company, said:

"It is true that this company has purchased the control of the Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling Railroad company. We now have a majority of the stock in our possession. I cannot say when we will take physical control of the property."

Cleveland's Advice Regarding Clubs of Young Democrats.

New York, March 5.—Grover Cleveland has written to Arthur De V. Storey, president of the Young Men's Democratic club, of the Twenty-first assembly district, the pioneer club in the movement to organize the young Democrats of this city in a political association to give supplementary work to the regular Democratic organizations in each assembly district. The organization is a practical application of the advice given by Mr. Cleveland to young men to enter politics. His letter says:

"I know that a body of young Democrats, associated for the purpose of disinterested work and whose object is to make better known and stimulate devotion to intelligent Democracy, will not be long ignored by party managers, and that when once recognized their influence for political good will easily follow. But it is of vital importance that their efforts should be patriotic, untrammelled and intelligent. As soon as an association of this kind becomes effective and strong, temptations will be put in its way that must be shunned or resisted, if it would retain its usefulness and influence in the attempt to attain the best political results."

DE WET WAS HEADED.

Was Moving on Philadelphia, but Turned Toward Fauresmith.

London, March 5.—A dispatch from General Kitchener, dated Pretoria, March 4, said:

"De Wet was moving on Philippolis, but was headed by our troops, and is now marching on Fauresmith. "Babington has dug up a Krupp, a Pompon and some ammunition at Landfontein.

"Sixteen men of the Victoria rifles have captured 33 Boers and 50 horses at Sea Cow river.

"General Dantnell has captured a Hotchkiss near Pietertief.

"Surrenders continue in that district. Over 50 men, with a commandant, came in March 2."

Just the Opposite.

"When I first met you," cried the woman who had been married for her money, "you occupied a low, mental position, but now, thanks to me, your position"—

"Is a hygienic one," her husband interrupted. —Exchange.

His Terrible Cough.

Few things are so depressing and weakening as a constant cough. Few things are as discouraging as a cough that will not yield to treatment. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures coughs when all other medicines fail, because it is more than a cough medicine. The cough is but a symptom. "Discovery" makes new and pure blood, heals the lacerated tissues, and gives the body the needed strength to throw off disease. It cures the cough by curing the cause of the cough. There is no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, or other narcotic in the "Discovery."

"I had a terrible cough something over a year ago and could find nothing to stop it, or even to do me a particle of good," writes Mr. J. M. Farr, of Cameron, Screven Co., Ga. "I chanced to see an advertisement of yours, and forthwith bought a bottle of your invaluable 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Before I had taken half a bottle I was entirely well."

At Nagasaki the other day a foreigner calling at the ranch of one of the chief shipping companies found the whole place deserted. It appeared that, the day being fine, the manager and staff had gone out on a mushroom hunting expedition. Mushroom hunting is a pursuit that appeals to every true Japanese.
